

He Whistled for Help

'I BLEW IT HELL FOR LEATHER'

Toy Whistle Saves Man's Home, Belongings in 3 a.m. Fire

By DAVE STOCK

A plastic toy whistle his granddaughter gave him in Brisbane, Australia, and which he carried with him for two years, is credited with saving the home and possessions of 80-year-old Thomas James Dunstan early today.

Mr. Dunstan, a lean, sprightly man with a highly colorful past, awoke at 3 a.m. to find his Victoria-West house on fire.

The first thing he did was leap out of bed and reach for the whistle in the pocket of his suit coat, hanging nearby. "I blew it hell for leather," he recounted, "and when I wasn't blowing, I yelled loud as I could."

Mr. Dunstan was alone in the 10-room house at 202 Raynor Avenue he purchased just over a month ago. He was sleeping in one of the upstairs bedrooms. The house has no telephone.

Although flames were leaping from a wall and the upstairs was filling with smoke when he awoke, Mr. Dunstan made no immediate attempt to flee. He kept blowing his whistle, however, and the shrill sound was heard by Mrs. Jean Edwards, upstairs tenant in a house across the road.

Mrs. Edwards, an operator for B.C. Telephone Company, saw the fire and immediately telephoned the fire department. Pumps arrived within minutes. In the meantime, Mr. Dunstan had grabbed the bed clothes off his bed and thrown them over the upstairs banister so as to make a cushion.

Kierst Monday took the first place in line before the bleacher box office for the series opener tomorrow between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Special coverage of the World Series for the Times by Red Smith, famous New York sports writer, will start tomorrow, instead of today as originally planned.

Russia Urges Big Five Talks on World Tension

Red China Acceptance Is Soviet Parley Price

(Compiled From UP and AP Dispatches)

A world sharply divided by distrust appeared bent today upon meetings which could conceivably restore harmony.

Events leading up to such a surmise were:

1. IN PARIS the Soviet Union offered to negotiate a German settlement with the western Allies (Britain, U.S., France), in a Big-Four conference if they would join Russia and Communist China in a Big-Five round table discussion of all other problems.

2. AT UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Monday, Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon also appealed for a Big-Four meeting. In an address before the UN General Assembly he said: "Humanity cries for it. It might be a solution to our present difficulties. It would clear the air, including the situation in Germany and Korea... nothing would be more desirable."

3. IN LONDON, Monday, British Prime Minister Churchill said in a special statement that he has not changed his opinion that a Big-Four meeting would be profitable and should be scheduled.

4. BONN, Germany, Saturday, the Council of Europe voted by a 76-7 majority to urge a Big Four meeting and an East-West mutual security pact.

5. In Washington, meanwhile, the U.S. was reported by the United Press to be standing fast against mounting world pressure for a Big Four chiefs of state meeting until the Soviet Union demonstrates in lower-level conferences that it means to work for peace. "Officials insisted it would be useless to hold such a meeting now because, they said, there is no evidence the Soviet world intends to mend its ways and drop its goal of world domination."

Wants UN Seat for China Reds

PARIS (UP)—The Soviet Union proposed today a five-power meeting including Red China on all problems affecting "world tension" and a four-power parley with the United States, Britain and France on the future of Germany.

Russia demanded also that Communist China be given a seat in the United Nations and be permitted to take part in the settlement of all issues concerning the Pacific and Southeast Asia.

The Russian proposals were contained in a note handed to the three western ambassadors in Moscow Monday. The notes arrived in Washington, Paris and London today.

The long and vague—possibly deliberately—Soviet note gave no indication how or when Russia would like to hold the two conferences.

The initial reaction of officials here was that since the Russians put the five-power parley first, they meant to make it—at least for bargaining purposes—a condition for the holding of a four-power conference on Germany. Furthermore, since the note made no mention of the Lugano conference proposal, the conclusion of Allied experts was that the Russians by ignoring the invitation had rejected it.

Kremlin Ignores PM's Call

It was also noted that the Kremlin also ignored the call by British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a full-dress Big Four conference of chiefs of state including President Eisenhower, French Premier Joseph Laniel and Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov. Yet Moscow itself had long called for such a high level meeting.

The note was in answer to the western proposals of Sept. 2 inviting the Soviet Union to send its foreign minister to Lugano, Switzerland, Oct. 15 to discuss the issues of German unification and the conclusion of an Austrian treaty.

The Kremlin in its latest exchange with the West completely ignored this invitation. Instead it concluded its strangely vague 10-page note—the first one filled with the usual propaganda—with a demand for:

1.—A meeting of the five foreign ministers including Communist China's on all problems affecting "world tension" and,

2.—A meeting of the four foreign ministers, without the Peiping representative, on the German problem.

As for Austria, the note said that issue could be handled through "regular diplomatic channels."

TRUMAN CITATION CAUSES FUSS

Sunburst of Medals For Canadians?

OTTAWA (BUP)—Defense officials, wary of Canadian soldiers breaking out in a rash of ribbons, were still trying to decide today whether the Princess Pats can wear a decoration they won in Korea in 1951.

The 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, first Canadian army unit to serve in Korea, was cited by former President Harry Truman for its fight against the Communists.

Units of the United States army so honored may wear a blue ribbon framed in bronze. But the Pats have not yet received permission to wear the decoration.

Defense Minister Brooke Claxton and other top defense officials were still "considering" the matter, a spokesman said. Although individual members of the unit cannot display the ribbon that goes with the citation, the spokesman said, it is recognized in a streamer attached to the regimental colors.

The defense official made it clear that one of the chief reasons for the delay was his worry that if the Pats were given permission to wear the ribbon, it would set a precedent that might lead in the future to a sunburst of decorations.

Another consideration was whether members of the unit would wear the ribbon forever, even if they did not fight in the battle for which it was awarded. Defense chiefs were not going to be "rushed" into a decision on this "pretty important" matter, the spokesman said.

Police said they were working on a tip from a person who reported seeing Ronald late Friday night at the CNR station in company with an unidentified man. A $100 reward was offered for information leading to Ronald's recovery.

SIX-YEAR-OLD KIDNAPPED IN KANSAS CITY

Pseudo Aunt Takes Boy From School

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Police stood grimly in the shadows today awaiting the first move by the woman kidnapper of a brown-eyed six-year-old boy to contact the victim's millionaire father.

The kidnapper is a stockily built, red-haired woman. She whisked Bobby Greenlease Jr. from an exclusive Catholic school Monday, leaving his father, Robert C. Greenlease, 65, fighting back tears in his helplessness and his mother, 45, in bed under a doctor's care.

Greenlease, who has made millions as an automobile dealer in the midwest, had received no contact from the kidnapper by early today.

Police declined to discuss "ransom" possibilities. They remained in the background entirely, although one closed door conference followed another at headquarters.

The tall, distinguished looking father appeared briefly on the stoop at the front of the house. He fought back tears as he talked to clusters of friends.

Greenlease took Bobby to school as usual Monday... to the French Institute of Notre Dame De Sion, only French-speaking boarding and day school in the U.S.

Bobby's kidnapper moved easily and surely. She arrived at the school in a taxi and told her story to the nuns. She said she was Bobby's aunt and the boy's mother had suffered a heart attack.

STOPPED TO PRAY

She even stopped to pray for Mrs. Greenlease in the chapel, at a nun's suggestion. She said: "I'm not a Catholic, but it did me good to pray."

Then she left with Bobby in the taxi. They went a few blocks to the parking lot of a large drug store where they stopped for an ice cream cone, according to taxi driver Walter Creech.

They left the drug store and walked to a light blue, late model Ford, Creech said. The car had a Kansas license. Nothing has been heard of them since.

B.C. Mill Razed

TRAIL (BUP)—Damage was estimated at about $10,000 today in a fire which ripped through the Miller Lumber Co. sawmill and three houses at the nearby community of Westbridge.

Liquor Act Bill Still Faces Hitches

A last-minute stumbling block in presentation of the government's new liquor act is believed to be the so-called proprietary clubs issue.

The act was scheduled to be presented to the Legislature this afternoon, but at press time it was understood it would not be made known until Wednesday at the earliest.

The Stevens' Commission recommended abolition of "proprietary clubs" and there was speculation the government had decided to follow the recommendation.

Then a delegation from mainland clubs arrived at the Parliament Buildings this morning, and word of the delay in presentation was given.

Proprietary clubs were defined by the Stevens' Commission as those operated for private profit. In Victoria, they are the British Public Schools Club and the Tillamook Club. Vancouver has several such clubs, including the Pacific

Reuter Dead

A symbol of the West's opposition to Communism deep inside the Iron Curtain, Mayor Ernst Reuter of West Berlin, above, died at his home today. He was 64. The sharp-spoken Reuter led 2,200,000 of his fellow-citizens through a grueling 327-day Soviet blockade. Reuter headed the government of the U.S., British and French sectors in Berlin.

Egypt Claims Israeli Force On Border

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Minister of national guidance Salem Salem said today Israeli armed forces had occupied parts of the demilitarized area around Auga on the Egyptian-Israeli frontier.

The Egyptian government has summoned the army commander-in-chief to Cairo for consultation and has notified the joint Palestine armistice commission and the Egyptian delegation to the United Nations of "this aggression," Salem said.

"We are not disclosing our plans," Salem said at a press conference. "But we know what to do."

Lt. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, the Egyptian commander-in-chief, is returning at once from an inspection tour to take charge of the military aspect of the situation, Salem said.

He declined to give details of the reported Israeli move, or its date.

POLIO WORSE; INTER-SCHOOL SPORT BANNED

City MHO Advises New Precautions

Because of the high prevalent incidence of polio in the Greater Victoria area all inter-school athletics has been canceled.

Notice went out from George Grant, superintendent of physical education for the school board, to all school principals in this area today.

One new polio case was reported in Greater Victoria Monday. A 30-year-old Saanich woman was admitted to the isolation centre at Jubilee Hospital, bringing the total number of cases in this area since the beginning of the year to 75.

The school board decision was taken on the advice of Dr. J. L. Gayton, Victoria-Esquamit medical health officer.

Notices to the principals said: "All physical activities of an inter-school nature should be cancelled for at least a month and maybe longer."

"Regular physical education periods should be continued as usual and all students should be encouraged to keep in top physical condition. Interhouse activities are left to the discretion of principals."

GALA POSTPONED

The school board instructions mean the postponement of the big inter-school swimming meet, which was to have been held October 23, October 30 and November 6, under the auspices of the Victoria Swimming Club.

"We are avoiding all excessive physical activities as much as possible," a school board spokesman said.

"This is just a precaution," Dr. Gayton explained.

School authorities are reporting all cases of absenteeism and wherever it seems necessary medical attention will be given.

Parents are urged to take every precaution when youngsters develop symptoms which indicate subnormal health. They should keep youngsters from school and, in doubt, get medical advice, authorities urge.

Meanwhile, the Vic Van Isle Kinsmen Club's campaign to aid the B.C. Polio Fund was helped considerably when a $333.50 donation was turned over from three groups of employees at Royal Jubilee Hospital. The contribution of the hospital workers brought the fund total here to $2,550.52.

Former Egypt Premier On Trial for Treason

CAIRO (AP)—A former Egyptian defense minister testified today ex-King Farouk was primarily responsible for sending "unarmed Egyptian forces" into battle against the Jews during the 1947-48 Palestine war. He said this was done against the advice of the army general staff.

The minister, Mohammed Haidar, was testifying in the trial of former premier Ibrahim Haidi, who is charged with high treason. Haidar was minister of defense in Haidi's cabinet.

Chief Justice?

Governor Earl Warren of California, above, may become chief justice of the United States, high administration sources said today. Mr. Eisenhower is expected to make the announcement tomorrow. Warren would succeed Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson who died Sept. 8 of a heart attack.

Seamen's Strike Seen Endangering Canada's Entire Ocean-Going Fleet

CARDINAL DENOUNCED BY RED POLES, SENT TO MONASTERY

LONDON (UP)—The Polish Communists denounced Roman Catholic Cardinal Wyszyński today as a reactionary guilty of "anti-Polish and anti-state" activities.

The Warsaw radio announced Monday night that Cardinal Wyszyński had been banished to a monastery and forbidden to perform his religious duties.

The action climaxed the Communist regime's long war with the church in the overwhelmingly Catholic country.

A Warsaw radio broadcast referred to "certain revelations" about Wyszyński's activities during the spy trial of Bishop Czesław Kaczmarek of Kielce, three priests and a nun before a Warsaw military tribunal this month. The bishop was sentenced to 12 years in prison and the others to lesser terms.

IN THE HOUSE

Rupert Haggen (CCF, Grand Forks-Greenwood), summed up many British Columbians' feelings about the strength of the province's liquor:

"In the United States, you know what you're buying. But in B.C. you don't know which is adulterated—the water or the liquor."

Eighteen of the 48 members were out of the House Monday during part of Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd's address.

Nobody can quite figure out why the lawmakers insist on making such long speeches at a session which, for all intents and purposes, is a special session.

In 1880, the gross value of manufacturing production in B.C. was $3,000,000.

In 1952, the total was $1,375,000,000, an average increase of $19,000,000 a year over the 72-year period.

Increased use of television has brought new industries to B.C., according to Mr. Chetwynd.

A new company on Lulu Island is now producing television receivers at the rate of 1,500 per month, and expects to be producing 3,000 sets per month early in 1954.

Two new companies, one at Sidney and another at Vancouver, are producing television antennas.

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative MP from Saskatchewan, paid a short visit to the Legislature with Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Tom Uphill, veteran Labor MLA from Fernie, is reported in for a "dressing down" from Speaker Tom Irwin for making the ladies blush last Friday.

It seems several persons didn't take kindly to some of Mr. Uphill's stories.

One can't help but think it takes the lawmakers a long time to get down to the business of law-making.

Speeches have their place in the democratic system, but...

How they started:

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing's first job was manager of the fertilizer division of a large milling company in Vancouver.

Dr. Larry Giovando, lone Tory in the House, started his working career sacking coal at Ladysmith.

Sidney Volunteer Firemen Appeal For Cash Support

SIDNEY — Fire prevention week starting October 5 will coincide with the annual fund appeal of Sidney Volunteer Fire Department.

Cmdr. F. B. Leigh, chairman and secretary-treasurer of the fire committee, said today the department is supported entirely by voluntary subscriptions which have been lower than usual this year.

The need for donations remains great since hose and equipment must be replaced as age and wear and tear take their toll," he said.

Equipment includes two fire trucks, a trailer pump, forestry pump, 2,000 feet of 2½-inch hose, and 2,000 feet of 1½-inch hose.

Staff consists of G. A. Gardner, fire chief; Robert Shade, deputy chief; W. A. Beswick, W. W. Gardner and Robert Jones, captains, and 15 firemen.

MONTREAL (BUP)—Deep-sea shipowners warned today that "only foreign interests" could benefit from a seamen's strike against Canada's already diminished ocean-going fleet of 33 merchantmen.

"It will mean the finish of the deep-sea merchant marine of Canada," a shipowner said as a strike by 1,300 members of the AFL Seafarers' International Union entered its second day.

The shippers said Canadian companies "cannot hope" to compete with foreign lines "whose wages are only a fraction of those paid here."

"Only foreign interests can benefit by this action," he said, indicating general cargo would now be turned over to non-Canadian vessels.

The union, which called the walkout at noon Monday to support wage and hour demands, charged in return that its strike would be "a real show down" with the shipowners.

The last walkout on Canadian ocean ships occurred five years ago and was organized by the Communist-dominated Canadian Seamen's Union.

It was broken only after the CSU was smashed. The fleet then numbered 400 ships.

Strike calls were sent out to all Canadian ports but most of Canada's 33-ship deep-sea fleet was at sea. There was a possibility the walkouts might spread to overseas ports.

Chinese Conundrum To Ex-Ambassador

Major-General Victor Odium, former Canadian ambassador to China and one-time publisher of the defunct Vancouver Star, said Monday night that he was "puzzled and amazed" at the situation in China today.

"When I was there (1942-46) I loved the people. There's lots of fun in the Chinese. They are very clever and quick... they should be among the leaders of the world," he said.

The 73-year-old general was speaking at Victoria College Normal School in the opening lecture of the 30th season of the University Extension Association.

"Their trouble is that they have no cohesion," he continued. "They lack teamwork, they have no interest in other groups and they will not accept discipline."

"If the Communists succeed in getting the Chinese people to accept discipline there will be a new China—a quarter of the world's population under one rule," he said.

Until 1940, Chilkoot barracks was the only U.S. Army post in Alaska.

Explanations To PWs May Be Delayed

FANMUNJOM (AP)—The neutral repatriation commission said today that explanations to Allied and Communist war prisoners who have refused to go home may be delayed again—this time by a dispute over facilities.

Explanation teams which will attempt to persuade the PWs to return home were scheduled originally to start talking to prisoners last Saturday, but the talks were postponed until Thursday because of a dispute over rules.

An Indian spokesman for the commission today said the meeting may be pushed back again unless the Reds and Allies accept explanation centres already constructed.

He said both sides want extensive changes. The Communists, he said, object to centres built by the United Nations command because Red teams would have to pass through all the PW camps to reach them.

The Allied objection apparently stems from the dispute over whether prisoners should be interviewed individually or in groups. The Allies want group explanations while the Reds insist on individual interviews.

Inflammability Tests Explained to Clubmen

Methods used to measure the inflammability of woods were described to Victoria Gyro Club Monday by Jack Turner, of the B.C. Forest Service.

He explained the difficulty of getting a standard index of hazards, because so many different factors are involved, and many different methods are used.

Installation of Gyro's new officers will be held at Club Sirocco Friday evening.

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP)—More than 350 employees of the Dominion Bridge Company in Winnipeg went on strike today for higher wages and a shorter work week.

Two Quebec Bush Pilots Sell Iron Ore Claims for $1 Million

MONT JOLI, Que. (CP)—Two Quebec bush pilots have sold for "more than $1,000,000," claims to iron ore deposits discovered while flying over rugged country in northeastern Quebec.

Capt. Paul Lapointe of Rimouski said today he and his copilot, Bill Atwater, have sold their claims to the Iron Ore Company of Canada. Discovery of the deposits was announced September 25 by Premier Duplessis.

Lapointe, 33-year-old chief pilot of Quebecair Incorporated, said the ore deposit, 80 miles north of Havre St. Pierre, was discovered on a flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, to Mont Joli.

"Our plane compass went screwy and we figured there was some iron ore down there," he said.

Lapointe said he and Atwater rented a pontoon-equipped seaplane and flew out to the spot, 400 miles east of Quebec City, to pick some samples.

The money to be paid by Iron Ore Company of Canada over a period of 27 years, will be shared with Dr. Steve Maherick of Montreal, a Hungarian-born geologist, who was called in by the fliers when "we needed someone with experience."

Iron Ore Company of Canada is the concern which already has mining concessions in the Ungava interior near the Quebec-Labrador boundary, 300 miles north of Sept Iles.

Lapointe said the discovery goes back to the end of July. He and Atwater got to work promptly trying to establish how big the ore deposit was and began negotiations with Iron Ore Company after staking out a total of 20 claims covering 400 acres.

Premier Duplessis said Friday the area has an estimated 50,000,000 tons of high-grade ore. Lapointe says "there is much more than that."

In Montreal, an official of the Iron Ore Company said the company has taken an option on the claims of the two airmen. As far as he knew no cash has yet changed hands.

The official said the bush pilots will receive "more than $1,000,000 if and when" the company starts exploiting the deposits.

TIMMINS RESIDENTS CALL FOR STRIKE SETTLEMENT

TORONTO (BUP)—Telegrams urging Premier Leslie Frost to take "immediate action" to settle the Porcupine Gold Mine strikes began pouring into Queen's Park today as his labor minister met with the troubled Mayor of Timmins to discuss the northland's economic crisis.

The telegrams, requesting the government to "spare our community from disaster," came mainly from Timmins and district communities where 4,000 miners are on strike for higher wages and union security.

Labor Minister Charles Daley said he was "ready to see what can be offered as a solution" as he went into closed-door sessions with Mayor J. W. Spooner and Reeve Victor Evans of Tisdale Township.

PROVED FINANCIAL WIZARD

Shabby Vicar Leaves Fortune of $2,478,900

LONDON (Reuters)—Most of Canon William Francis Butt's parishioners in a grim east London slum district thought their shabbily-dressed parson was a pauper when he died in February at the age of 74.

By Monday, when his will was published, they learned that he died fabulously rich. He left a trust fund of about $800,000 and a personal fortune of $26,300.

The trust fund is to provide decent homes and educations for illegitimate children and orphans. Building it up was the bachelor parson's life work.

But, wondered his parishioners, how could the meek, silver-haired Anglican cleric have amassed such wealth on his meagre annual stipend of £350.

Butt certainly didn't live life to the limit of his means. His vicarage was a bombed house. Usually he dined frugally on dried fruit and cookies. He rode around his dockland parish of Haggerston on an old bicycle actually tied together with string.

In appearance he looked as poverty-stricken as a tramp in skid row. His dirty, black clerical coat was more than 20 years old and it hung loosely from his bony shoulders—he weighed only 119 pounds. His trousers were tattered. And he shuffled around in worn shoes several sizes too big for him.

He made so much money simply because he was a financial wizard, with an uncanny flair for successful investments.

Friends said he first thought of founding a fund to help under-privileged children when he was a zealous young curate 36 years ago. He wanted eventually to accommodate 1,000 needy kids in a cottage community somewhere in the country.

He started his fund by borrowing £1,000 from an aunt. And he vowed he would never touch a penny until he had built it up to £1,000,000.

His original capital soon snowballed, thanks to his Midas touch when it came to making a shrewd deal. He added to it by persuading the titled and the wealthy to give him fat "returnable donations"—loans without interest—and then astutely investing the money.

Butt didn't stick to his pledge never to withdraw any of his fund money before he reached the million-pound mark. He died £200,000 short of it.

Authorities Probe Burned Wreckage

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Investigators of the civil aeronautics administration today inspected the burned wreckage of an army-chartered plane which crashed at Standiford Field here Monday, killing 22 persons and injuring 19.

The two-engined C-46, operated by Resort Airlines, stalled several hundred feet from the ground as it came in for a landing and dived nose first into a soy bean patch. With a crew of three, it was ferrying 38 soldiers from Camp Kilmer, N.J., to Fort Knox, Ky.

The injured were in critical or serious condition, suffering burns, broken bones, head or internal injuries.

It was the first fatal crash at Standiford Field, the city airport, since it opened in 1944.

City fire captain Ed Schmitt, who arrived moments after the crash, said "It was just one mad scene of screams and moans. Nobody could talk coherently."

Lt. Col. Henry Stibel, Fort Knox transportation officer, said the soldiers were en route to Fort Knox for processing—discharge from the service or re-assignment.

REGINA (CP)—Eugene H. Johnson, United States consul in Regina, has been transferred to the American consulate-general in Vancouver. He will leave Regina at the end of the week. The U.S. consulate in Regina was closed Sept. 1.

Duke's Air Speed Mark Recognized

U.S. to Try Record Today

LONDON (AP)—The International Air Federation today officially confirmed the world speed record of 727.6 miles an hour set up by British test pilot Neville Duke Sept. 7.

The federation also confirmed Duke's record of 709.2 miles an hour over a closed 10-kilometre 62.13 miles circuit a few days later.

Both records were made in a scarlet Hawker Hunter jet near Littlehampton, on the south coast of England.

Duke's mark of 727.6 miles an hour is not expected to stand long. Fellow test pilot Mike Swift, flying a Supermarine Spitfire, was clocked at 737.3 miles an hour in North Africa last Friday and is planning a second assault on the record.

And a United States Navy pilot who Monday almost set a record tries again today. Lt. Cmdr. James Verdin averaged 742.7 in four passes of a three-kilometre 1.863 miles course on the California desert, but international rules requires a record to be at least 1 per cent higher than the old mark.

U.S. GRANTS ASYLUM TO RUNAWAY POLE

TOKYO (UP)—The United States gave a runaway Polish member of the neutral nations supervisory commission in Korea permission today to live in the United States.

The American Embassy in Tokyo said the necessary documents needed for entry into the United States had been issued to Jan Hajdukiewicz, who is now in Okinawa.

Hajdukiewicz, an interpreter, requested asylum at the U.S. air force base at Kanguing on the east coast of South Korea 20 days ago.

New Trial Ordered

VANCOUVER (CP)—An assize court jury failed to reach a verdict in a drug charge Monday, and a new trial was ordered to begin today.

The charge was against Norman Talbot, accused of selling narcotics to RCMP undercover agent Const. Gerry Howe who was living in a downtown hotel and posing as a drug addict at the time.

The jury deliberated for one hour and 40 minutes.

Florida Governor Dies of Seizure

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)—Charley Johns, president of the state senate, takes control as acting governor of Florida today succeeding Democrat Gov. Dan McCarthy who died Monday night.

Johns called for official mourning for the popular young governor who was elected by the biggest vote ever given a candidate for chief executive of the state.

McCarty, 41, a scholarly looking but robust six-footer, died at a hospital at 9:55 p.m., EDT, of a heart disturbance complicated by pneumonia.

He had never been seriously ill until he suffered a heart attack last February.

Valuation of an interest in privately-owned companies frequently presents a serious problem in estates when it comes to settling Succession Duties.

The duties payable will depend directly on the "Fair Value" placed upon the interest in the business by Succession Duty Authorities.

It is of prime importance that your estate be represented in negotiating values by an executor experienced in determining values.

Doubtful Taxes

MR. LAING, THE LIBERAL leader in the legislature, is right in urging the Bennett government to consider carefully the effect of its proposed new tax on the timber and mineral industries.

It is curious, to say the least, that the first act of a government elected on a policy of economy and minimum taxes should be a tax increase—especially at a time when the timber and mineral industries are entering a period of decreasing prices for their products.

It is true that the new tax will not touch company profits below $25,000 a year. But that exemption is narrow and will affect only a limited group of the smallest operators. Most of the operating timber and mineral companies must pay it and thus increase their basic cost of production.

It is easy to say, of course, that men rich enough to own these industries can afford to pay more taxes, but in fact they must affect the general economy of the province and hence everybody. If they discourage investment in these industries, as Mr. Laing fears, they will restrict the production and employment on which all British Columbians live.

Does the government clearly foresee the effects of these extra burdens on industry? Has it fully considered the recent changes in the price of metals and timber, the increasing difficulties which our products must meet in the world market? If it is following a policy of strict economy, as it claims, and if former governments spent too much, as it charges, why does it need more revenues and more taxes? Or does it intend to reduce other taxes—apart from such minor items as automobile licenses and meal taxes—while raising those on our basic industries?

These questions, presumably, will be answered when the annual budget is introduced and debated in the legislature. Full answers are required when both industry and the individual Canadian already are heavily burdened with taxes, when Canadian exports are facing sharper competition everywhere.

Fate Worse Than Death

MANY AUTHORITIES IN THE free world today are pondering the new type of warfare that has been demonstrated in Korea. The object of their study is not an enemy gun or plane, not a new kind of explosive or tank. The weapon is more diabolical than any of these. It is used when the soldier, having been outnumbered, wounded or deprived of further means of fighting, throws himself on the mercy of the enemy.

The U.N. men who have come back from imprisonment in North Korea know that surrender in a war against communists does not mean an end of the struggle; it means only that the attacks will be continued on a different plane.

History has little to match the new tactic—the indoctrination or "brain washing" practised on U.N. troops by the North Koreans and Chinese. By physical torture in many cases, by ceaseless repetition of propaganda in others, the Red captors worked on the beliefs of their victims, seeking to swing them to an acceptance of communism. Full acceptance was the goal, but if even a doubt of the western way of life could be implanted a small victory was won for the Red ideology.

One writer gives a hypothetical example of what could be accomplished. A youth is questioned by his captors. He knows that under the Geneva convention he need tell only his name, rank and serial number. But clever encouragement either in individual talks or group "discussions" eventually persuades him to tell more.

He admits that he was No. 2 on a gun; he placed the shell in the breach ready to fire. What was in the shells, he is asked. Why, various explosives or shrapnel. How does he know? Well, it was common knowledge. Did he ever look inside a shell? Of course not. Wasn't it possible, then, that some of the shells could have contained germs? Nonsense. How can you be sure, if you never examined one? And so on and on.

Sooner or later a doubt might be started in the youth's mind. It could extend, under continued coercion, to many of the things he had always held dear.

Starvation or the threat of it, close confinement or the threat of it, withholding of mail or other privileges, could all play their part. A man returning from months or years of such an ordeal could need a long period of rehabilitation to help him regain a sane view of life, a perspective which would enable him to see the communist propaganda in all its falseness.

The implications for future warfare are almost without horizon. They could mean that a captive soldier would be lost forever—his body still living but his mind distorted and imprisoned. When we read that Germans are still living in prison camps in the Urals—holders from a war now drifting out of immediate memory, when we learn that Japanese are still held in Siberia, nearly a decade after the declaration of peace, it is not difficult to imagine what could happen in a future conflict, in which only the fate of the physically dead might ever be known.

Modern war, which has no real beginning, has also come to have no real ending. The free world will have to devise a new defense against this evil development of ideological warfare, lest Patrick Henry's alternatives—liberty or death—become the only ones; lest survival for future liberty disappear as a hope for captured men.

Good Appointment

AT ITS SPRING SESSION, THE last legislature drastically altered British Columbia's Pro-Rec program, lopping a substantial sum off the budget allowed the year before and making financial assistance dependent on some measure of community support and organization.

In effect, the change removed much of the paternalism from the program that had grown up since the depression days. Instead of passing recreation down to the people, it called upon the people to show a measure of self-propulsion, organize their community groups and justify their claims to assistance from provincial funds.

To co-ordinate work between the provincial authorities and local groups, the new program called for the appointment of a director of community programs, under the department of education.

Obviously the post required a person of fact, experience and organizing ability. Those qualifications are possessed by the man chosen for the job, L. J. Wallace, director of athletics and student activities at Victoria High School.

The selection of "Lawrie" Wallace for the new post will be applauded by all who know him and are acquainted with the successful manner in which he has handled important events for the schools of this province. His has been a course of quiet efficiency which has produced the co-operation needed in the type of work to which he will transfer himself.

The tasks before him may not be easy. They call for energy, imagination and the ability to inspire team work. Those are qualities which he has proved on innumerable occasions during his career at Victoria High School.

Melancholy Victory

TEMPERAMENT ON THE TENNIS court is generally little more than a combination of exhibitionism and bad manners, but Danish Davis Cupper Torben Ulrich seems to have lifted it a little above that standard.

Before his match against San Franciscan Bill Hoepner was completed in Berkeley the other day, the Dane called his opponent to the net, shook his hand and left the court. Hoepner, according to reports, had halted play frequently to clean his glasses, tie his shoe laces and change racquets.

The American's tactics were considered by the Dane to be ill-disguised efforts to upset his opponent.

"This," said Ulrich, "isn't the way tennis is played. Winning is not so important to me. The game is the thing. I did not enjoy this one if winning means that much to Hoepner, he's welcome to it."

Hoepner won the match by default, but if the facts are as Ulrich stated them, one Dane should have produced a very melancholy American.

In Praise of Rain

NOW come the first rains of autumn, the distilled essence of our coastal life. The sun may be shining again when this is printed, the season of "mist" and mellow fruitfulness will stretch almost to Christmas in this region, but now the long drought is broken and the ocean, which drained out of our mountains last winter, returns to repay its borrowings, in the changeless currency of rain.

ITS fall in the coastal forest, which is its child, makes a symphony of many subtle sounds.

The untrained ear may register only a monotonous drip. The countryman detects a score of separate tones, blended together. With eyes closed he can identify the vegetation around him as the rain hums through the close sieve of the evergreens, clatters on the broad foliage of maple, chatters in the alders, beats like a kettle drum on the brittle leaves of salal and tinkles through the frail deerleaf.

A SYMPHONY, but only a light overture to the Wagnerian Gotterdammerung of winter, when the ocean, that reckless conductor, gets down to serious business and the cloud masses move in from the west.

Man has learned little about the management of the rain on which he and all other life survive. A few dams have been built to impound this precious stuff, to water our farms and make our electricity, but all around them the timber, nature's dam and reliable sponge, has been hacked down until, along our coast, the rain has no sooner reached the land than it pours back prodigally into the sea, taking with it the precious chemicals and lifeblood of the earth.

Nature quickly tries to staunch this hemorrhage by thrusting new rootlets into the eroding soil and anchoring it again to the mountainsides.

NO seed of tree, brush or weed could even germinate without the tide of water flowing landwards in the unimaginable wet freight of the clouds. Rain, however the local chambers of commerce may regard it, however the inhabitants or dry interior lands may joke about it, is our largest asset, the essential bloodstream of life, both animal and vegetable, on this narrow shelf beside the sea.

The vegetable, which has no mind, understands this sovereign fact more clearly than the animal, even the human animal, whose mind is almost unlimited.

MAN resents the rain, he hides from it, as he has always hidden, in his earlier stone caves and in the new-fangled caves of lumber and plaster. He mopes in his woodland cabin, as I am doing at this moment, watches the deluge cleansing the air and sluicing the earth, and he wishes he were in California. The vegetables know better.

After months of thirst, a gigantic thirst beside which all the thirst of mankind is a small affair and all the cascade of liquids, spirituous and otherwise, down the collective human throat is a tiny trickle—after this long parching, the forest sucks up the rain with a vast gurgle of relief.

Always it comes just in time, when the forest's thirst is unendurable, when a few more months of parching would destroy all vegetable life and then the human life which depends on it.

HAPPILY, the larger affairs of the planet, being outside man's control, never fail. Clouds, bulging with their wet cargo, move regularly in from the ocean where they have been generously loaded from the salt reservoir, they discharge their freight, without reference to the Board of Transport Commissioners or the cost of wages, the rain falls in liquid upon the coast, in solid snow upon the mountains, the great sponge swells, the lakes rise, the rivers run, the annual treasure is heaped up to support us through next year's scarcity.

And man, seldom grasping the facts of his pitifully frail life, stares out the window and complains of the weather.

The Supersonic 'Bang'

The Times (London) Aviation Supplement

Sqdn. Ldr. Neville Duke, Chief Test Pilot, Hawker Aircraft, currently preparing to reaffirm his world air-speed record.

THE influence of the speed of sound on flight is, in a broad sense, brought about by the fact that air is compressible. When an aircraft flies at a speed near that of sound compressibility effects occur in the form of "shock waves."

These form locally on any part of the aircraft where the local airstream reaches sonic speed. Thus, compressibility may be experienced on an aircraft when it is flying at less than this speed and may be as low as 70 or 80 per cent of the speed of sound; normally the figure is expressed as 70 or 80 Mach number, after Dr. Ernst Mach, who first related the angle of the shock wave of a bullet to its speed relative to the velocity of sound—and that in the nineteenth century!

CHANGE IN FLOW

These shock waves produce considerable change in flow, associated with changes in pressure distribution, lift, drag, pitching, and hinge movements; in practice these effects show themselves simply as changes in aircraft trim, stability, or control characteristics, and vibration or buffet.

The behavior of an aircraft in compressibility or Mach number difficulties cannot truly be determined except in flight. Since severe vibrations or violent changes in trim may result from these effects these tests are approached carefully and with due caution in the knowledge of the possible reactions to be experienced.

These compressibility effects can be delayed, or even eliminated to a large extent, by design, i.e., swept wings, thin wings, good aircraft shape with low frontal area, and the selection of the most suitable aerofoil section for the wings and tail surfaces.

IMPROVED DESIGN

The experience gained in flight testing of one aircraft provides data upon which the designer bases his next improved design, and at this time we have a generation of fighters coming into service which will operate in and around sonic speed.

Design knowledge has aimed at providing the maximum possible degree of stability and control to enable the machines to fight at those speeds with the utmost efficiency.

The drag rise as an aircraft approaches sonic speed rises rapidly and may be assumed to reach effective proportions around .95 Mach number in present-day fighter aircraft. A disproportionate increase in power is required to increase speed once the drag rise has become apparent, and comparatively large increases in dive angle will be necessary once the transonic region (above approximately .98 Mach number) is reached.

HEARD BELOW

It is interesting to note that in a 30-degree dive half the aircraft's weight is acting as thrust. Thus it comes about that at present sonic explosions are heard on the ground because the aircraft is in a dive during its passage through sonic velocity.

In a very short while supersonic speed in level flight will become commonplace with the advent of improved designs, with possibly more sweep-back and thinner wings, coupled with greater engine power. In this case the sonic "bang" will not, it is thought, normally be heard unless the aircraft is flying below about 20,000 feet.

The effect of supersonic speed in level flight at low altitude upon earthbound bodies has yet to be established, but the "bang" produced at the present time by dives from high altitude is fairly widely known and experienced.

HARMLESS NOISE

Generally, this type of explosion is harmless, although perhaps startling, and tests have shown little variation in their characteristics. It appears that the rate of acceleration of the aircraft has no influence on the resultant level of the "bang," and dives with speed rapidly or slowly building up produce similar results.

It does, however, seem evident that the steeper the dive the louder the effect, presumably because the pressure waves produced are concentrated in a smaller area. Also, it seems from experience that the lower the altitude when supersonic flight is reached the bigger the "bang." This may be an important feature in the effects obtained when low-level supersonic flight is achieved.

DE-CONTROL

If an all-powerful autocratic milk board is to have all the say as to who shall or shall not distribute milk then the so-called de-control at the producer level might as well be thrown overboard.

We have heard a lot about the desire for a measure of free competition and enterprise in this regard which is all to the good if proper freedom is exercised and allowed beyond the producer level. Anything but that at this stage would certainly show that all the talk about wanting to get cheaper milk to the underprivileged consumer is untrue and even two-faced.

So long as any person or company complies with the laws regulating the quality of the milk sold and pays the producer the fixed price, no authority should be permitted to stop them. It is very doubtful that such repression would be tolerated by our courts, should the matter be referred to them.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE, 151 Beach Drive.

OPEN LETTER TO J. C. McLEOD

It was unfortunate that the Mann Cup series should have come to a close with the booing incident of Wednesday night.

I think you should know that this was not a personal attack against you, neither was it bitterness because the Shamrocks lost, they have lost before. Rather it was the fans' spontaneous outburst of disapproval against the Canadian Lacrosse Association which you represented, and which had not controlled the rough play before one of the players was almost killed. And also because they felt the association bowed to the "requests" of the Trailermen regarding the referees.

I believe the foregoing is quite an evident explanation of the uncomplicated reception you received, for when the cup was received by Captain Dootch Vitarelli and the Mike Kelly Memorial Trophy by Ross Powless there was wholehearted and sincere applause.

Victoria, the best lacrosse city in Canada, as your receipts show, goes all out to support their team, whatever the sport, and can take a win or loss in its stride, as long as there is clean, fair play. If there is not they'll show their disapproval in one way or another—in this instance you heard the expression of their pent-up feelings against the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

"FAIR PLAY."

APATHY

Some time ago I pointed out some of the things that were undermining our peoples' morals, thinking some live Christians would carry on the discussion and help stem the tide of moral decay. However, apparently many of your readers are the slumbering type similar to the five virgins in the parable who failed to serve God when they had the opportunity.

I wonder what people would think if a man purchased a valuable machine that would do many things for the betterment of mankind and he hardly ever used it. Naturally, most people would think there was something wrong with his mind. Yet this is precisely what the average person is doing. He is equipped with all the faculties that are necessary for making a better world and also the opportunity to develop his soul for a much better life in the world to come. However, instead of using all his faculties as God intended he should he only uses the few that will take care of his physical needs and desires, while his soul remains undeveloped. Which means that he is neglecting and sacrificing the most valuable thing he possesses for the cheap and shoddy things of life that have no permanent value. This is why the average person lacks the desire to encourage good works or to condemn evil.

"THE OBSERVER."

For Good Conversation

BY SIR RONALD STORRS, Administrator and Writer, in London Calling

ONE of my personal preferences is to be alone a good deal with short bouts of company, particularly at meals—eat meals, even breakfast. Never to eat alone—and preferably to have somebody to talk to as I dress and shave!

I got into that habit during my years in Cairo and Jerusalem, where my servant Said kept up a running stream of Arab comment, sometimes amusing, often scandalous, though rich in information which nobody else would ever have given me, from the time he called me till he hurried away to make the tea for breakfast.

The next-best shaving companions are good gramophone records or radio, though the radio generally keeps its better stuff until later in the day.

And these people at meals—how many? Six is ideal, and eight almost as good, so that one can enjoy general conversation and not degenerate into unproductive dialogues.

NOT EASY

It is not easy to keep conversation general: the conductor—host or most competent guest—may concentrate upon himself or favor individual players; but if he can prevent breaking into asides he will have transmuted a routine meal into a civilized banquet, even into a symposium.

And what sort of man or woman—if I had free choice—would I invite to this banquet? I am for all-round people with two or more interests in life. We cannot now aspire to prime ministers like Gladstone, with such by-products as, cutting down trees and translating Homer; nor Rosebery, with the four-folio Shakespeare on his shelves and three Derby winners buried outside his drawing room window.

Though our present prime minister, with his eloquence, his wit, his writing, his painting, his riding to hounds, may fairly be said to surpass (as he is one of the few to survive) that grand generation.

Thomas Beecham, too, can be excellently various company quite apart from his tremendous knowledge of music and musicians: he is a fine Latin and Greek scholar, able to use his memory to illustrate a story or point an argument, and a profound Elizabethan student, frequently quoting from the great men who, in Shakespeare's time, also wrote plays.

VARIED TOPICS

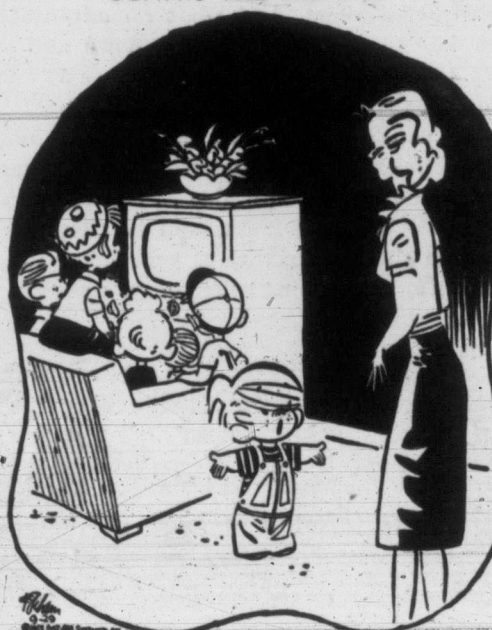

T. E. Lawrence—Lawrence of Arabia—when in the mood, could join in and lead on discussions about speed boats, Homer, highest-power motorcycles, French literature, airplane engines, tulip bombs, and of course Arabs and Arabia. Once again, it is the "all-round"ness I prize, not merely one's own "shop" (imposed by oneself and endured by the rest); and so foreigners are always welcome in my scheme. Sport is better played, or watched than talked about: few discussions are so futile as the respective merits of the two best centre half-backs of all time, who bob up different every season!

Licentious Literature

WHILE getting some papers at a downtown news stand the other day, a young friend of mine happened to be in buying a paper-backed novel. And he picked up a copy of a book, by a writer known widely for his lecherous themes, whose cover was of the startling, sexy variety that seems to be the accepted style for even the most innocuous tales.

He asked me if I had read it, and I confessed that I hadn't—and added that I had no desire to as I couldn't find sufficient time to read all the many books that, in my humble opinion, were worthwhile. Whereupon my young friend—a lad of 16 or thereabouts—gravely told me that by not reading the author in question I was missing something really worthwhile—a picture of real life—reduced to elemental realism.

I had to smile. He was so very young and so very much in earnest. From the security of his sheltered home he looks out with adolescent eyes upon a world which, while outside his ken, appears to him as the sort of jungle pictured in the realm of the so-called realists. As he grows older, of course, he will find out that in real life the vast majority of people lead decent, clean, wholesome lives, never coming into even the remotest contact with the so-called real life of today's sexy, sordid novels—a series of sadistic, salacious stories by morose and perverts.

That youngster's readiness to accept the crudities of that type of novel as a true picture of life reminded me of the frank criticism of today's best-sellers made by Ben Ray Redman, a well-known American critic, a few years ago. He observed that the United States now possesses "the most licentious literature that ever enjoyed popular distribution."

According to him, the contemporary American novelist goes about the preparation of "the fundamental theme of sexual congress with all the earnestness, all the bustle and scientific equipment of the radio engineer arranging to broadcast the proceedings of a world peace conference."

A FORESTER'S ANTIDOTE

Because those American novels enjoy just as wide a distribution—in proportion to population—in Canada as in the United States, his words are of concern to us, too. Familiarity breeds contempt, the old saw has it. And certainly familiarity with the prurience and sordidness which play such a big part in our modern reading tends to create a contempt for the fast vanishing reticencies and decencies and leads youngsters to think that real life is like that.

Some will at once retort: "What about our so-called classics? What about the works of Smollett and Rabelais?" The answer, of course, is that those were written at a time when the reading public was very small; owing to general illiteracy, and their distribution was confined to the elite few.

What is the antidote? Again, I recall what a B.C. forester wrote to me on this very subject some years ago. He took the stand that only by infusing a love of the decent and the beautiful into people's minds shall we counteract the lower moral trends. And he cited a quotation he found in an old trapper's cabin high in the Rockies region: "Our present world is a world of remarkable civilization, but it is not very natural and not very happy. We need yet some snatches of the life of youth—to be for a season, simply happy and simply healthy. We need to draw some great draughts of simplicity and beauty. . . . And man with all his knowledge and his pride needs sometimes to know nothing and to feel nothing but that he is a marvellous atom in a marvellous world."

Russia Supplied the Answer

THERE is a simple, deeply significant reason why President Eisenhower has courageously decided that it is time to trust the people with the hard facts of the national situation. The background story of "Operation Candor"—the admirable plan for a series of candid reports to the nation by the president and administration leaders—goes back to midsummer.

At this time a speech on the threat to this country of the growing Soviet atomic power had been prepared, on an experimental basis, for the president. Eisenhower had been strongly urged to make a frank statement on this subject by some of his advisers—and he had been as strongly urged not to by others.

Without making up his mind one way or the other, the president asked that such a speech be drafted for him, so that he could see how it would look on paper.

He took the draft with him on his vacation, and began working it over in longhand, as is his custom, covering about a third of it with revisions and interlineations. But he still had not decided to go ahead with the speech. Then, on August 12, came the news of the explosion of the Soviet hydrogen bomb.

This event deeply moved and impressed the president. As detailed analyses of the air samples of the Soviet hydrogen test became available, moreover, he became more and more impressed by the terrible significance of the event. Here a certain caution is necessary, since certain secret technical matters are involved.

Yet it can be said that these analyses had a simple, non-technical meaning which was all too clear to the president. For they dispelled, once and for all, any lingering notion that the Soviet physicists and weapons specialists were inferior imitators.

They also exploded the hopeful theory that the Russians would never have made progress in the nuclear art had it not been for Fuchs, Pontecorvo, and the little band of traitors. The Soviet hydrogen test proved, in short, that the Soviet specialists are brilliant experimenters in their own right.

The more Eisenhower became convinced that the people had a right to understand the danger which confronted the nation, and that he had a duty to help them understand. He sent the speech he had been writing back to the White House, with instructions to "carry on from there."

Subsequently, he approved plans for extending "Operation Candor" into a whole series of reports on one aspect or another of the national peril, by other administration leaders as well as himself.

The series on "The Safety of the Republic" which has grown out of this presidential decision is still strongly opposed by powerful quarters within the administration. The opposition comes largely from the economists, who fear that there will be a bad political reaction if the administration cuts defense expenditures while the people are being told the truth.

"Operation Candor" may therefore be fudged in the end, or even abandoned. But the facts which so deeply impressed the president remain.

The first Soviet atomic bomb, tested years before the intelligence experts had forecast, was another unpleasant eye-opener, and there have been others. Now comes the Soviet hydrogen bomb, which was not only tested before the intelligence expected, but which is also deeply disquieting for the technical reasons referred to above.

Surely it is now time to realize that we are in a race for simple survival, and that our competitors in the race are technically our equals and in some respects perhaps our superiors. The race will surely be lost if we continue to entertain the illusion that our rivals are ignoramus tied to "an oxcart economy," and incapable of original experiments.

Seen Near Regina REGINA, Sask. (BUP) — Four whopping cranes, about the rarest bird in North America, have been seen over southern Saskatchewan during the past week, museum director Fred Bard reported today.

Bard said three of the near-extinct birds were spotted in the air 37 miles southeast of Regina. Little Ann has started to save money on a systematic plan. Each week she places in her piggy bank 7 pennies, 3 nickels and 1 dime. Her father has promised to double her savings as soon as they total an exact number of dollars. How much will his promise cost him? Monday's answer: George was 17 years old.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL. With the advent of colder nights and rain, the summer flowers have suddenly assumed a bedraggled appearance. Only last week we were cutting gladioli, snapdragons and Esther Reed and Miriam varieties of Shasta daisies, but now their freshness is gone. The gladioli may be dug as soon as the foliage begins to turn yellow, also the corms of Acidanthera and Tigridia. Dry carefully in a warm, airy place before putting them away for storage. Dampness will rot them.

The plants of snaps, the 10-week stocks, larkspur and all the summer flowering annuals should now be cleared out entirely in the final preparation for fall planting of bulbs. With moisture in the soil, perennials may be lifted, divided and replanted more easily. Old clumps of aquilegia (columbine), delphinium, hemerocallis, phlox and dicentra (bleeding heart) will all benefit from having the young portions of the roots removed and planted. Throw the worn-out, woody central portions on the compost heap, where they will breakdown during the winter.

Peonies should be disturbed only if they flowered poorly last season or appear definitely overcrowded. Divide only your best plants. Discard those which have proved unpleasing to you for any reason. Don't give them away—that which is not good enough for your own garden

Alberta Oil Wells Establish All-Time Production Record

CALGARY (CP)—An all-time oil production record was set when Alberta's 4,271 wells turned out an average 284,429 barrels daily in the week ended Sept. 21, the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board reported Monday.

The previous record was 274,029 barrels daily in the week ended last July 20. That output came from 4,124 wells. Leduc-Woodbend was the top-producing field, its 1,202 wells turning out 82,353 barrels daily. Redwater yielded 82,203 barrels from 927 producers. The prolific new Bonnie Glen field scored an average daily production of 25,883 barrels from 69 wells.

BEAVERS INCREASE PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—A large increase in the beaver population of northern Saskatchewan is foreseen by provincial game officials. The officials said Monday that population reports sent in from Molsona at the north end of Montreal Lake and Ile a La Crosse show "a great increase" in the beaver colonies over last year.

If these were indicative of population increases in other trapping areas, then hopes may be brighter for a good trapping season, despite the ravages of an unidentified beaver disease which left great numbers of beaver dead during the last two years throughout the north land.

700 Canvassers Hear Chest Drive Pep Talk

"Nobody has a big job to do and if every canvasser does his little job conscientiously, there is little doubt the Community Chest drive will be a success."

That was the message of Community Chest president, Ralph Matthews, speaking to a rally of nearly 700 male canvassers and their wives at the Totem Theatre Monday night.

He paid tribute to the campaign committee under chairman Courtney Haddock and to the total of 2,000 citizens who will work toward the $210,686 target starting Thursday.

Prior to curtain time for the "Glass Menagerie" presented freely by the Totem players to assist the drive, the audience joined in a sing-song led by Fred Usher and CJVI announcer Walter Cownden, who also volunteered their services.

A skit by Harry Gladwell and R. M. "Dinty" Moore based on questions that might be put to a canvasser was pointed and humorous.

Courtney Haddock spoke briefly, giving final instructions and injecting a note of enthusiasm.

OFFICIALS HOPEFUL

Chest officials present expressed themselves on the optimistic spirit prevalent in the campaign.

The new plan of promoting monthly payroll deduction or monthly payment through city banks is expected to greatly increase this year's total donation, they said.

Early reports indicated that where a person gave a spot donation of five dollars last year, by subscribing to the monthly payment plan he finds he can easily double or treble his donation.

Chest funds will be divided amongst 16 Red Feather services. Each has submitted an estimate of income and expense for the coming year to the Chest. Each budget has been carefully reviewed and where necessary pared by a committee.

MCCARTHY HINTS BERIA STORY 'HOAX'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy said Monday the report that Lavrenty P. Beria is hiding in Spain "begins to appear like a hoax."

He said he is "still not convinced one way or another."

But, he added, his information indicates "more and more" that the person involved may not be Beria.

McCarthy said he expects the Spanish government to issue a statement "very soon."

Bevan, Followers Retain Executive Seats

MARGATE, England (AP)—Aneurau Bevan and his left-wing followers easily held their headhead today on the Labor party national executive committee.

The party conference returned the Bevanites to the six seats they won last year from Clement Attlee's moderates.

The fiery Bevan and his followers remained heavily outnumbered, however, on the 28-member committee, the party's top policy-making committee.

The committee is made up of representatives of trade unions, co-operatives, a women's branch and local organizations of the party. Moderates dominate all these sections except the last.

The local party organizations have seven members on the committee. All but one of these seats went to the Bevanites last year. The voting this time produced no changes in this section. Bevan himself polled the highest number of votes of any of the 19 candidates.

Return of Bevan and his followers to the policy-making body did not produce much excitement this time. Bevan himself had given the impression that he wants to be considered a good party man rather than a rebel.

A segment of the party that stands well to the left of the Bevanites touched off a 15-minute row over a foreign policy statement made public last Saturday by the national executive committee. The far-leftists demanded the right to amend this document.

During the uproar on the floor there were cries from the moderates of "chuck them out" and retorts of "come and try it." The conference finally decided not to open the statement to amendment. It will be debated fully Thursday.

The foreign-policy statement said:

"Labor pledges itself to make every effort to foster improvement in international relations and to end the cold war."

KERRY WINS

DUBLIN (AP)—Kerry won the all-Ireland football final Sunday, beating Armagh by 13 points to one goal and six points.

"The conference urges renewed efforts to convene, at the earliest date, a four-power conference at the highest level in order to seek out any possibility of agreement on outstanding issues."

Ontario Police Hold Man as Murder Suspect

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (BUP)—Provincial police said today they were holding a man suspected of being one of Canada's most wanted criminals but cautioned that it might be a case of "mistaken identity."

A man resembling Donald Winslow Henderson was arrested by Constable W. H. Boyd in Schreiber, Ont., Monday, and was brought here and placed under arrest.

Henderson, 28, was wanted for slaying his 24-year-old fiancée in Calgary, Aug. 11, 1949. Police here checked with Calgary for the man's description and found several things "didn't jibe."

Police said for one thing Henderson's eyes were supposed to be brown and this man's were blue. His general appearance was the same, however, and they were continuing an investigation.

Henderson fled from the East Calgary Inglenook auto cabins while police were busy contacting a doctor and ambulance for Yvonne Levesque of Pincher Creek. The girl died shortly after her bruised, battered and naked body was found lying on the floor of a cabin in which Henderson was registered.

We wonder how much finer you can get than the aluminum wire used in delicate apparatus which records the earth's tremors. Drawn out almost to the vanishing point, it is about one-twelfth the diameter of a human hair. One pound of aluminum would make enough of this unbelievably fine wire to stretch 20,000 miles!

We know no more striking example of the way people make use of the lightness and strength of aluminum for all sorts of jobs. Our research and technical men are constantly tackling new questions brought to them by Canadian manufacturers who look to aluminum in developing new products, or better products, or products that cost less. Bombers Crush Riders; Esks Trim Stampeders

Rookie Back Stars in First Start

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP) — Geoff Crain was the talk of the main today.

The kid from the college had finished the Filchuck fix. Crain, a 22-year-old quarterback from McGill, directed the Blue Bombers to a 19-2 victory Monday night over the Saskatchewan Roughriders in his first start for the blue and gold and before a sellout crowd of 16,400.

It was the first Winnipeg win in three starts against Frank Filchuck's Reginians. It was also the team's second in six games and left the Bombers four points ahead of the third-place Riders in the western conference.

The Bombers had lost 21-15 at Regina Saturday. As all-star quarterback Jack Jacobs stayed on the bench except for a few kicking assignments, the youthful Crain gave end Bud Grant two touchdown passes, sent Len Miltzer over on a hand-off and moved the club downfield for a total of 165 yards on ground plays that had Filchuck in a tizzy. Bud Korchak converted all three majors and accounted for the other point when his attempted field goal caught Herb Johnson on a rauge.

Filchuck went into the game himself during the second half but Crain had command and didn't relinquish it. He completed eight of 17 passes for 87 important yards.

TRIPUCKA PLAYS

Former Notre Dame star Frank Tripucka started at the throttle for the Roughies, and kicked both Saskatchewan points. Crain took the offensive from the starting whistle and threw a long labelled pass to the rangy Grant who rolled over unopposed for the first major.

Each team scored only one point in the penalty-ridden second quarter as Johnson's roused on Korchak's attempted field goal and Dave West was caught behind the Winnipeg goal line on a 67-yard punt by Tripucka.

Little life appeared in the Saskatchewan attack in the third quarter and Bombers' sensational halfback Tom Casey succeeded in leaping up and snaring three Filchuck passes.

After a successful downfield march, the Bomber machine counted again when Miltzer bowled his way over from the Roughrider two-yard stripe on a hand-off from Crain. Tripucka kicked the last Saskatchewan point when young Gerry James was caught behind the goal line on a long punt.

The hard-charging Winnipeg line broke up the Saskatchewan attack and foiled three concentrated touchdown efforts in the final quarter. In the last two minutes of play the Bombers broke loose for their third touchdown when Crain connected with another long pass to Grant.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

Scalpers Look Like Good Bet to Succeed

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — There must be considerable interest in the world series outside of New York too. . . . Every major hotel in the city is jammed and an estimated 750,000 visitors already are here. . . . The hotels are honoring "confirmed reservations only."

As usual, some tickets are in the hands of scalpers and they are asking $80 to $150 for a strip of four to the Yankee Stadium games. . . . Looks like they'll sell them all this time. . . . They sometimes are stuck with plenty of pasteboards and wind up practically giving them away.

The weather bureau predicts fair and warmer for the city at least for the first day of the series.

Allie Reynolds, who is scheduled to pitch the opener, was the only Yank hurler to be excused from Monday's drill.

TIME OUT!

I know they can't possibly lose this year, Tom, but we just can't take a chance on what happened last World Series, can we?

Irish Filly To Race at Santa Anita

LONDON (CP) — Blue Butterfly, brilliant Irish filly which recently won the Ayr Gold Cup, has been leased by Canadian owner Max Bell to race at Santa Anita this winter, it was learned Monday.

Blue Butterfly, a four-year-old by Blue Train out of the Pannam mare Kildangan, was bred by Frank More O'Ferrall, who works closely with Bell in purchasing British bloodstock. The filly ran third in the Stewards Cup at Goodwood in July in a field of Britain's best sprinters, but obtained her revenge in the Gold Cup at Ayr, Scotland, Sept. 18 when she turned the tables on the Goodwood winner.

The flying Irish filly will be shipped to the United States in a few weeks.

Mrs. Rhys-Jones Tops Medal Round

Honors in a city medal competition for women divers with handicaps of 15 or under were taken by Mrs. D. Rhys-Jones with a gross 86 score at Cowfold Golf and Country Club Monday.

The low net section was won by Mrs. D. G. Whyte with a 76, while Mrs. Rhys-Jones was runner-up with an 82.

Al Lopez Signs Two-Year Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Lopez signed a two-year contract Monday to manage Cleveland Indians at a reported $40,000 a year after leading the club to three straight second-place finishes.

General manager Hank Greenberg announced the signing at a press conference in his hotel room after reaching terms with the 45-year-old manager.

ESKS ROLL

In eight hard-fought plays, with seven minutes gone in the frame, Edmonton got to the Calgary eight-yard line and from there on it was just who could push the hardest. Miles went over for the touchdown two plays later and Snyder converted.

With only two minutes left in the game and Calgary making a last ditch, hold-off attempt, Miles went over from the 13 for his third touchdown. Snyder again converted.

BROOKLYN — Coley Wallace, 204, New York, stopped Bill Gilliam, 211, Orange, N.J., 4.

He attended a meeting of the executive council on behalf of the players. . . . Reynolds, by the way, will have something to shoot for. . . . If he wins one game, he will tie Red Ruffing's record of seven world series triumphs.

If Dressen pitches young Johnny Podres in the Elberts Field opener Friday, it will come as an open "surprise." . . . Chuck has been threatening to use Johnny.

The word is that Stengel and his brain trust really are worried about Mickey Mantle's ailing right knee. . . . Mickey took batting practice Monday. . . . "It felt pretty bad," he admitted.

It was the first Winnipeg win in three starts against Frank Filchuck's Reginians. It was also the team's second in six games and left the Bombers four points ahead of the third-place Riders in the western conference.

Late Rally Keeps Win Streak Alive

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP) — Depth did it, Darrell. Definitely.

If Darrell K. Royal, coach of the Eskimos, didn't know the above fact today, he should be so advised before his head bailed over Edmonton's eighth straight western conference win—a 21-12 decision here Monday night over the Calgary Stampeders before 12,000 fans in Mewata Stadium.

The Eskimos aren't that good. The Stamps had them hog-tied 12-8 going into the fourth quarter. Darrell's depth and Calgary's collapse caused the turnaround.

As the Stampeders line lost its drive, Rolfe Miles rolled for two majors to add to another he scored in the even-strengthened third frame. Two converts and a single completed the rout.

The Esks picked up two points, both on rouges, in the first quarter while Calgary went scoreless. Quarterback Claude Arnold was credited with the first one and Rod Pantages the other.

A hard-fought second-quarter produced no results for either team. Edmonton missed a major when Frank Anderson picked up a Billy Vessels pass in the clear but was tagged by the sensationally fast John Henry Johnson.

It was the amazing Mr. Johnson who sent the fans crazy in the third frame, when he took the ball on the kickoff at his own five-yard line and ran 105 yards for a touchdown.

Recently-discovered place kicking specialist Glen Christian made the convert good and the score was 6-2 for Calgary.

The Stamps suffered a setback in power when star Johnny Bright, an offensive and defensive standout during the game, was hurt and knocked out of the contest. It was believed he broke a collarbone.

Edmonton came back with a touchdown from the Stampeders 20 on a handoff to Rolfe Miles.

The convert by Wilbur Snyder hit the goal post but Calgary was ruled offside and he made it the second time around.

With two minutes left in the frame, Calgary again roared ahead when ancient Sugarfoot Anderson snagged an Edmonton ball and flipped it to Bill Pullar who went 37 yards for the major. Christian made the convert.

Edmonton garnered a point in the first minute of final quarter when Calgary's Pete Thodos was rouged on a Pantages' kick.

The Stamps got three fruitless plays in before Edmonton got the ball. Then it was curtains.

Six Named To Baseball's Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Six new names were voted into the Baseball Hall of Fame at a meeting of the new committee on old-timers at Commissioner Ford Frick's office Monday.

The six are umpires Bill Klem and Tom Connolly, managers Ed Barrow and Harry Wright, and players Charles (Chief) Bender and Bobby Wallace.

Wright was player-manager of the fabulous Cincinnati Reds in the 1870's, and Barrow, later general manager of the New York Yankees, had a notable career as field manager, chiefly with the Boston Red Sox.

Wallace, a shortstop, was a major leaguer for 25 consecutive seasons. He played for Cleveland, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Browns, and wound up his career with the Cardinals in 1918.

Bender long was a pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics.

Flyer Star Tackles Red Wing Ace

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP) — Ted Lindsay, fiery captain of Detroit Red Wings, and Jim Red Eye Hay, hefty Edmonton Flyer defenceman, touched off a bare-knisted brawl here Sunday night during an exhibition hockey game.

The brawl started in the second period between the National Hockey League club and Flyers of the Western Hockey League.

Lindsay dumped Hay with a hard body check and Hay shook off his gloves and took after Lindsay.

After six minutes of blow exchanges, the pair was banished to the penalty box and a policeman was assigned to sit between them. A nother fistfighting started in the penalty box. Two policemen finally subdued the pair but not before high-scoring Gordie Howe of the Wings led three other Wings to Lindsay's assistance.

No one was injured in the fracas. The game ended in a 2-2 tie.

Stone Leads Grid Scorers

TORONTO (CP) — Avatus Stone, 24-year-old halfback who jumped Chicago Cardinals for Ottawa Rough Riders this season, is hitting a seven-point-a-game average to lead Big Four scorers.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the Negro triple threat with 42 points in six games, three up on Ray Poole, field goal specialist from Montreal Alouettes and 10 more than Ottawa's Gene Choo Choo Roberts.

MONTREAL — Bryan Kelly, 138, Niagara Falls, Ont., stopped Ray Powell, 17, Pittsburgh, 1.

Leafs 'Big Time' All the Way

Editor's Note: This is the second in a Canadian Press series on the season prospects in the National Hockey League. Today's story is on the Toronto Maple Leafs. Tomorrow: Chicago Black Hawks.

BY JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ST. CATHARINES (CP) — "If I didn't think we could make the Stanley Cup playoffs I'd go home."

Frank King Clancy, the quick-tempered little Irishman, thus summed up his observation of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, the team he played with 23 years ago and will coach this season for the first time.

"They've got class written all over them," Clancy said as he whipped Leafs into shape for the 1953-54 season at their training camp here. "They're big time from the water boy up."

Clancy, one of hockey's most dynamic players and later its most colorful referee, isn't worried by the fact that he's working with substantially the same Leaf club that missed the playoffs last year after shooting the works on youth and a new goaltender.

"The kids have grown up, and the veterans are hungry," he says. "This may be one of the best Leaf teams in years. Why, Kennedy looks better now than he ever did in training," Clancy said. "He's practically down to his playing weight of 174 pounds. And he's scoring plenty of goals."

Joe Primeau, who retired as coach at the end of the 1952-53 season, relied on Kennedy to lead the crop of youngsters last year. Clancy will go along with him this season.

Clancy will probably assign Kennedy to centre a line with leftwinger Sid Smith, with Leafs for seven seasons, and rightwinger Bob Bailey, a rugged newcomer from Cleveland Barons of the AHL. Bailey, 22-year-old native of Kenora, Ont., went strong in training.

There are holdovers Bobby Hassard and Tod Sloan and Danny Lewicki at the centre spots. Hassard may go with Gord Hannigan, a driving leftwinger, and Eric Nesterenko, rookie right-winger who postponed a college education to play in big-time hockey.

NEWCOMER PLEASES
Clancy may find a spot for John LeClair, 24-year-old native of Quebec City who came up from Ottawa Senators of the Quebec senior loop. He is a centre but was used on the wing here.

Clancy said he was "very worried about falling hair? DO THIS!" Today, there is a treatment for falling hair — say thousands of British men and women. It's pure SILVIKIN! An organic hair tonic, pure SILVIKIN combines 14 amino-acids. Regular use rids the scalp of dangerous dandruff, actually stops falling hair. . . . and stimulates normal hair growth. Ask your druggist for this famous British hair preparation today! — pure SILVIKIN!

Terms of the sponsorship agreement call for Kesselring to spend two years on the U.S. tournament circuit, playing in both winter and summer events. He is the first Canadian golfer to plunge into such a long campaign against the best in the U.S.

He will get a car for travel and receive enough money to pay expenses with some left over. A condition of the arrangement is that his wife, Helga, and their four-year-old son travel with him.

Although he has never won the Canadian amateur championship, a match play event, Kesselring is regarded by many experts as Canada's best amateur, particularly at medal play.

It is expected that in his tournament play, the 24-year-old free-swinging Kesselring will be attached to Toronto's new Downsview Golf Club, of which Knight is part owner. As an amateur, he has been attached to two Kitchener clubs—Westmount and Rockway, where he got his start under the tutelage of professional Lloyd Tucker.

2,000 IWA Lumbermen Out on Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Picketers shut down 40 lumber mills Monday in the northern sector of the province's timber-rich interior.

The International Woodworkers of America (IWA) called 2,000 members off the job following a government-supervised strike vote after rejection of a conciliation board majority award by the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association. The award was for a 6-cent hourly pay increase.

The present basic wage in the interior is $1.29 1/2 hourly.

Spokesman for the lumbermen said the vote was held in 31 mills and that men in 19 of these voted to strike, with 12 voting to stay in.

As a result, the IWA called out 40 mills in the northern interior. The vote was 809 for a strike, with 400 against, the association spokesman said.

ALSO CLOUDED

"We pulled the men out because the employers showed no sign of meeting the board's award," IWA district secretary George Mitchell said.

Meanwhile, in the southern interior, the labor picture was also clouded as union officials there applied for a strike vote after the IWA members voted to reject a conciliation board proposal of a 3-cent hourly increase.

If the walkout spreads, it will affect 4,500 more workers.

U.S. Naval Planes 'Attack' Vanguard in Games Bloomer

ABOARD HMS VANGUARD (AP)—United States naval planes "attacked" the British battleship Vanguard Monday in the first big blunder of NATO's North Atlantic manoeuvres off Ireland.

The planes, from U.S. carriers, and the Vanguard were all seeking the same "enemy"—the British cruiser Swiftsure in exercise Mariner.

But the planes apparently took the battleship for the cruiser and gave the Vanguard a terrific imaginary pasting.

The Vanguard frantically tried to identify herself as a friendly ship. But still the planes came in. Then the Vanguard opened fire with blank shells as the planes—believed to be based on the U.S. carrier Bennington—made run after run.

CPA DEFERS JET SERVICE INDEFINITELY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Airlines plans for a jet passenger service from Sydney, Australia, to Honolulu, have been postponed indefinitely.

The company planned to launch the service last March, but the first Comet purchased by CPA crashed.

Esquimalt to Expand, Modernize Police Force

A motion recommending the hiring of three additional policemen and purchase of a two-way police radio was passed by Esquimalt Council Monday. The motion marked the first step of the council to reorganize and expand the municipal police force. The motion followed recommendations from the Esquimalt Police Commission urging an increase in the police force. Two men will be taken on the force on probation as of November 1, the council instructed. The third man will be enlisted in January. The present police force consists of three constables, one sergeant and a chief constable. The police radio, to cost about $2,000, will be purchased before the end of the year.

"I know it will cost the municipality a little more to operate the police force," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele. "But our force is understaffed. Extra men are needed if it is going to be policed adequately."

The council also endorsed a recommendation of the police commission that a traffic light be installed at the corner of Tillicum and Craigflower Roads.

Up Chetwynd Reports

British Columbia's economic outlook is favorable and past progress inspires faith in the future, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd informed the Legislature Monday.

The minister painted a word picture of the province's economy for the lawmakers, reviewing nearly every phase of its diversified industry.

Here's the picture for the first six months of 1953:

Retail trade—having its "ups and downs" but overall value up 4.2 per cent over same period last year.

Bank clearings—An increase in first six months of $37,000,000 over 1952. Total: $5,516,479,000.

Gasoline and electric power consumption: Gas up 10 per cent, and electricity 7 per cent. Population: Up 2.7 per cent to 1,230,000.

BUILDING HEAVY
Construction: One of biggest years. Index of employment in June at 369.6 compared to 315.2 a year earlier. Wages also at record high of $81.38 per week.

Payrolls (general): Total for June 3.6 per cent greater than one year ago. Average weekly wage at June 1 was $65.

Forest industry: Off to a somewhat shaky start in spring with high logging inventories and uncertain foreign markets. But total timber scaled at end of June about equal to previous year. Total lumber sawn for first six months nearly 2,000,000 board feet compared to 1,767,234 feet last year.

New manufacturing: Total of $127,700,000 expected to be spent on plant and equipment. B.C. Mr. Chetwynd said, contributes nearly half the total fisheries wealth of all Canada.

STRIKE TOOK TOLL
In 1952, the province's total production was valued at $58,600,000, a considerable drop from the previous year because of lower selling prices and a season-long herring strike.

The herring strike is estimated to have represented a loss of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

The minister reported that this year B.C. will for the first time be an exporter of oyster seed.

"It should not be long before we could be supplying most, if not all, of the United States growers as well as our own requirements," Mr. Chetwynd said.

Chetwynd Suggests Renaming Ministry
B.C.'s department of railways could well have its title changed to the "department of transport for B.C.," Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd said in the Legislature Monday.

"Considering the diversity of the types of transportation (under the department's jurisdiction) I believe there is merit in the suggestion that the name be changed," he said.

The volcanic Mount Etna in the island of Sicily covers more than 450 square miles at its base.

5,325 Insure After BCHIS Arrears Cut

Total of 5,325 British Columbians registered under the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service after the provincial government abolished all arrears in May, 1953.

The government wiped out the arrears to encourage delinquent persons to enter the scheme.

This information was tabled in the Legislature Monday by Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin in reply to questions by Rae Eddie, (CCF, New Westminster).

Of the total 2,974 registered under the payroll deduction plan.

The report gave no information as to the total number of hospital insurance delinquents in the province. Thus it is impossible to assess the true effect of the plan abolishing arrears.

CO-INSURANCE FIGURES
Replying to other questions, the minister said 97,788 patients were charged $1 a day co-insurance between January 1, 1953, and August 31, 1953.

Total of 2,868 paid co-insurance amounting to between $30 and $50; 763 between $51 and $70; 244 between $71 and $100, and 258 over $100.

Cash balance of the scheme at August 31 was $4,613,535. In this fiscal year, $5,142,274 represented prepaid payment by registrants.

The subsidy for 1953-54 of $4,033,428 has not yet been credited to the hospital insurance fund, Mr. Martin reported.

In the first six months of 1953-54, 35 per cent of registrants paid their hospital insurance premiums by payroll deductions.

Sacred Study Course
A course of study will be inaugurated in the View Royal Community Hall Thursday at 8 by the View Royal Social Credit Group.

A Sacred M.L.A. not yet named, will address the gathering. The study course has been approved by the Social Credit League.

Plea for Return to B.C. Police Brought by Doukhobor Troubles

The provincial government Monday was asked to consider reviving the old B.C. Police force.

The request came from Rupert Haggen (CCF, Grand Forks, Greenwood), who told the Legislature the RCMP doesn't have the manpower pool sufficient to meet the emergencies arising in the current Doukhobor trouble in the Kootenays.

He said when emergencies did arise provincial authorities were forced to call in police from other municipalities, leaving those districts short of the police protection for which they were paying.

"B.C. was short-changed when it entered in the RCMP deal to police the province," Mr. Haggen stated.

The member doesn't hold out much hope for success of the provincial government's plan to resell land to the Doukhobors.

BIDDERS WARNED
The veteran Socialist said: "This was tried a few years ago with the result that if any Doukhobor wanted to bid on a lot he was merely told by a Son of Freedom that 'maybe I will be told by God to burn your house if you take up that land.'"

More than 5,000 rural mail routes in Canada cover 120,000 miles of road.

He blamed much of the Freedomite problem on the fact that "an ignorant group is led by plausible, ignorant preachers, many of whom persistently misquote Scripture to serve their own ends."

The member contended the Homathko River, at the head of Bute Inlet, has enough power to solve the question of power shortage on Vancouver Island "without in any way spoiling Butte Lake, Powell River, Quesnel and the Fort George areas."

The Homathko River has a potential of 800,000 horsepower. The river rises at Tatlayko Lake and cuts through the Coast Range in Waddington Canyon to enter tidewater at the head of Bute Inlet.

He suggested the Legislature take steps to preserve this source of power for development by the B.C. Power Commission.

He appealed for greater protection to wage earners in B.C.'s mining industry.

Mining, from its very nature, is speculative in the early stages of development.

"We have in B.C. some high binders who apparently set out deliberately to balk the working man," Mr. Haggen said. "Under the Mechanics Lien Act the workman can file a lien on the property when his wages are not paid, but it does no good to a man to have a lien on a lemon. It may benefit lawyers but not workers."

"We have in B.C. some high binders who apparently set out deliberately to balk the working man," Mr. Haggen said. "Under the Mechanics Lien Act the workman can file a lien on the property when his wages are not paid, but it does no good to a man to have a lien on a lemon. It may benefit lawyers but not workers."

The member contended the Homathko River, at the head of Bute Inlet, has enough power to solve the question of power shortage on Vancouver Island "without in any way spoiling Butte Lake, Powell River, Quesnel and the Fort George areas."

The Homathko River has a potential of 800,000 horsepower. The river rises at Tatlayko Lake and cuts through the Coast Range in Waddington Canyon to enter tidewater at the head of Bute Inlet.

He suggested the Legislature take steps to preserve this source of power for development by the B.C. Power Commission.

He appealed for greater protection to wage earners in B.C.'s mining industry.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Age, they tell me, never hurts a good wine or a good anecdote . . . so . . .

Jack Turner of the B.C. Forest Service tells this one about one of the department's survey crews.

It appears they were running a survey down in the southern part of the mainland, when they discovered a startling fact.

Their instruments showed the earlier surveys of the U.S. Canadian boundary to be incorrect, and the line was actually several hundred yards south of where it was believed to be.

The new survey especially affected one old-timer who had lived (as he thought) in Washington for many, many years.

When they broke the news that he was actually a citizen of Canada, not the United States, he groaned and moaned and carried on something fierce.

"Come, come now," said one of the surveyors, "it isn't so bad, being a Canadian . . ."

"Isn't that I object to being a Canadian," said the old man, "it's just that I'm getting so old, I don't think I can stand those Canadian winters."

And the truth, they tell me, doesn't affect an anecdote one way or the other . . . so . . .

Man sitting next to me at lunch yesterday was telling this story to his neighbor. Swore it was true, too, and that it happened only last week.

A working man who needed a car but had only a few dollars saved saw an ad in the paper: "For quick sale—car in good condition, $50."

Figuring that, for $50, he hadn't much to lose, the man went around to the address given in the ad.

A middle-aged woman, dressed in black, greeted him at the door.

"That's the car over there," she said, pointing to the garage.

There, in all its shining glory, stood a 1933 fish-tail model, with every known accessory from push button windows to a disappearing bar.

The man gasped. "But . . . but . . . your ad said $50," he exclaimed.

"That's right," agreed the woman. "Give me $50, and it's yours."

Still looking for the catch, the man handed over the cash, signed the required papers, and drove away.

It wasn't until much later he learned what had happened.

The woman's husband had died only a few days before. His will stipulated the limousine be sold—and the proceeds given to his secretary.

It's a good story, true or false. So far, to my knowledge, it has turned up in Vancouver, Seattle, Toronto, Chicago, New York, and Dallas, Texas.

It is almost certain to take its place among the "authentic" folklore of this continent.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Hours for visitors to Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain have been changed. Visitors will be welcome on Saturday nights until the end of November from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. instead of 9 to 11.

Because of the five-day work week granted federal civil servants, opening of the dome of the observatory for the public on Saturday mornings has been discontinued.

Christian K. Kibsgaard was sentenced to four months in jail in city police court this morning for taking an auto without the consent of the owner.

He pleaded guilty Monday to a charge that he took a parked car from a used car lot September 19, 1952, by driving it through a guard-chain.

The car was found wrecked later that day at an up-island point.

WIDER SUBSIDY FOR HOUSING URGED

Home-Building School Courses No Answer to Shortage, Claim

A "build-your-own-home" course to start Oct. 7 at F. T. Fairley Vocational-Technical School is a poor solution to the housing shortage and high construction costs, a carpenters' union official said today.

"The only way to build more homes for people with moderate incomes is through further government participation in subsidized low-cost housing programs," said Victor Midgley, international representative of the union.

The course is a joint undertaking of the school board and VLA. For the first time it is open to anyone, instead of just veterans building under VLA.

"We have no objection to a man building his own home," Mr. Midgley said, "but after the average man has done his own work, and done his own hiring of subcontractors, he often finds he has paid more than he would have paid a general contractor."

"He also has an inferior product, and a nervous breakdown from five years of work without rest," he said.

Reputable general contractors in Greater Victoria work on an exceedingly fine margin on home building, he said.

The VLA-school board course will consist of 16 lectures and practical demonstrations.

Squatters' Cabins Set Afire

An end to Lime Bay shacks came today when city firemen put torch to the dismantled remains of 18 shanty-town cabins over which storm of controversy waged last year. Public attention was focused on Lime Bay in August, 1952, when city's health committee ruled shacks were health menace and fire hazard. Pensioners living there protested and won considerable public support. Tenants were not evicted but were pressed to move. Shacks were demolished as they became vacant. Last tenants moved out early this summer. Dry weather prevented final clean-up until now. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1953 13

Rear of house at 202 Raynor Avenue, where 80-year-old Thomas James Dunstan found himself in flaming bedroom early this morning, shows where fire broke through roof.

WHISTLE SAVES HOUSE

For other things he was going to save.

Interviewed this morning as he sat by the living room fire, he said his neighbor, Mrs. Dave Osler, 203 Raynor, the bearded Mr. Dunstan acknowledged it had been a mistake to keep going back and forth into his smoke-filled bedroom.

The first time back, he recalled, he fetched his trousers. The next time in he got his coat and vest. The third time he picked up his traveling bag and the fourth time he brought out a small-sized radio given him by his wife in Australia.

During his efforts, he took the time to pick up his favorite pipe and tobacco. Then he went downstairs and made an effort to save the kitchen furniture. He got only one chrome chair outside. There was little other furniture in the house.

First firemen to reach the scene found the old man, pyjama-clad, on the front porch, one shoe on and the other in his hand.

They hustled him to a neighbor's house.

Recalling the incident, Mr. Dunstan observed: "Some people think I must have a charmed life, but it's not very charming to be caught out on your veranda without your pants on."

Firemen confined the fire to the rear, upstairs of the house. A check revealed the fire started inside the wall next to a brick chimney. The chimney either became overheated or was faulty.

Born in Cornwall, the son of a tin miner, Mr. Dunstan went to sea before he was 14, worked in a nail factory, was shanghaied in Philadelphia, fought the Indian wars in New Mexico with the U.S. Cavalry, and came to Victoria to settle in 1918.

He recalls owning 37 houses, nine farms and 10 stores in his lifetime.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunstan went to Australia three years ago. He came back to Victoria in July and it was his intention to have the house renovated for his family, who stayed behind in Brisbane.

HOUSE SPEAKERS

Hierbert Bruch (S.C. Esquimalt), will make his first address in the Legislature Wednesday afternoon.

He will be the last speaker of the sitting.

Others are Hugh Shantz (S.C. North Okanagan), and Frank Calder (C.C.F. Atlin).

Libel Suit Appeal Opens Here Today

Two interlocutory appeals involving a libel suit of Gordon Wismer, former attorney-general, against MacLean-Hunt Publishing Co. Ltd. and Blair Fraser, journalist, based on an article published in the magazine, were scheduled to open this afternoon before the B.C. Court of Appeal here.

The firm and Mr. Fraser are appealing decisions of two Supreme Court justices who instructed them to disclose in advance of the trial names of people who furnished them with the material and facts which appeared in the article.

Mr. Fraser was asked by J. W. deB. Farris, Q.C. counsel for Mr. Wismer, to disclose his source of information at an examination for discovery held before Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker in Vancouver recently.

The newspaper refused to disclose the information on the advice of his lawyer, D. N. Hossie, Q.C. until the case had come up for trial.

The publishing firm also refused to disclose certain information in an examination for discovery held before Mr. Justice A. M. Manson.

Moderate damage was done to four cars involved in two separate collisions on wet city streets Monday afternoon.

A collision at Fort and Quadra involved cars driven by Leonard J. Jenner, 2613 Avebury Avenue, and Edmund E. Pisker, 968 Ambassador, at 5.10 p.m.

A car driven by Thomas E. Rose, 1281 Denman, collided with the rear of a car driven by Edward N. Bagshaw, 1405 Fernwood, at Pandora near Cook at 4.30 p.m.

Total revenue for the year's operations was $129,254. Total expenditures came to $90,952.

Hockey brought in the biggest share of revenue, $44,335. Skating accounted for $26,318 and lacrosse, $15,024. Concessions brought in $21,316.

Chief capital improvements undertaken last year was a new mezzanine seating scheme which cost $11,806. The Victoria Hockey Club assisted in this undertaking by providing $5,250.

Thieves also made away with $100 worth of blankets Monday from the home of A. J. Helmcken, 1025 Moss Street.

The blankets had been packed in cartons as the family was preparing to move. Away from the house for a short time, members of the family returned to find the back door open and the blankets missing. A key had been used for entry, Mr. Helmcken said.

Mr. Field, who was born in Worthing, Sussex, England, came to Canada at the age of 12 with his family. They lived for two years at Nanton, Alberta, and then moved to Victoria.

During the war he was wounded while serving with the Royal Canadian Navy in the Far East and retired to Saturna Island.

Alfred Field, 41-year-old naval veteran of Saturna Island, died Monday night in the Veterans' Hospital.

Mr. Field leaves a widow, Mrs. Edna Field and three small daughters aged four, two and eight months, and a married sister, Mrs. Charles Morrish of 1138 Faithful Street.

VICTORIA IN GALE'S PATH WEATHER PREDICTION SHOWS

Gales are expected to buffet Victoria tonight and the southern portion of Vancouver Island generally.

Weatherman Bill Mackie at Gonzales Observatory reports winds of 40 miles per hour are moving in from a storm centre about 600 miles southwest of this city.

Winds are expected to subside by Wednesday morning.

Word from the weathering on Station Papa 900 miles to the west, radioed here, tells of heavy seas and gale winds from the northwest in that area.

"This is the sort of weather we must expect at this time of year," Mr. Mackie said.

Drug-Carrier Suspect Committed for Trial

Girl Companion, Ashen With Shock, Pleads Guilty, Waits for Sentence

One hundred small white capsules, alleged to contain heroin, were presented in city police court today as evidence against Denis C. O'Brien, 713 Pembroke Street, who is charged with unlawful possession of narcotics.

O'Brien was committed to higher court for trial after pleading not guilty to the charge.

Evidence presented by RCMP Sergeant R. Whittaker was that the capsules were found on O'Brien's person in a street search on Douglas near Fisgard, Sept. 6.

At liberty after posting $5,000 bail, O'Brien again was picked up last Tuesday on a similar charge in company with an 18-year-old girl, Lenora Watson of Vancouver.

Both are now in custody. The new charge was read to them today by Magistrate H. C. Hall. O'Brien pleaded not guilty to both charges. The girl pleaded guilty.

The joint hearing was adjourned until October 7. Prosecuting is George F. Gregory. O'Brien is defended by W. A. Brethour. The girl is not represented by counsel.

SHOCKS She collapsed after leaving the court Tuesday after the joint charge was first read, to day was hardly able to walk without assistance.

Wrapped closely in a blue coat and wearing a head scarf, her face was ashen. She stood with difficulty to enter her plea and her expression showed shock when she heard her sentence would not be passed immediately.

O'Brien, nattily dressed, sat stiffly with his head back, thin-lipped, during proceedings. He was pale but seemed assured. He stroked his chin with smooth, well-kept hands, embellished with a huge black-stoned ring.

Gas Revenue Claimed Lost

Gasoline tax income, and not license fees, should be the government's basic source of revenue from automobiles, a delegation from the Motor Dealers' Association of B.C. told the provincial cabinet today.

"We recommend a flat license fee sufficient only to cover the cost of administering the department," it was stated in a brief submitted by Clarke Simpkins, president, and Edwin T. Orr, manager.

The license scale by weight or wheel base is outmoded in that it is encouragement to buy smaller cars, which yield about one-half as much gas tax revenue as the larger cars. It was suggested by the dealers.

"One of the by-products of such a fee is elimination of partial year license and refunds for unused plates, both of which we imagine are a costly part of governmental routine," the brief continued.

POLICY CRITICIZED The submission criticized the situation within the government insurance department in which some dealers are licensed to sell insurance, and others are denied the right.

One of the basic policies of "your government" is "special privilege to none—equal opportunity to all," the brief stated. Yet, it claimed, a licensed dealer will make from $200 to $500 per month more than his non-licensed competitor who has a similar business.

"You have inherited an untenable situation in relation to insurance," delegates claimed. "It is our firm conviction that dealers are entitled to receive a regular insurance commission."

"It is the recommendation of this industry that any dealer holding a new car franchise who can meet reasonable requirements of the provincial government insurance department as to honesty and integrity, is entitled to write insurance for his customer and receive a commission for his work."

POINT OF ANTAGONISM Speaking of government purchasing policy, the dealers mentioned a minor point that antagonizes a number of businessmen in smaller centres.

"You supply government employees with a requisition that, in effect, authorizes the garage man to mount a tire that will be replaced by his tire company, and all the dealer gets is a $1 labor charge on mounting the tire," according to the brief.

The dealer gets nothing for warehousing, stocking and handling of the merchandise, it claimed.

The brief praised progress made in the B.C. highway program, but urged its extension, and suggested minor changes in the driver training, driver testing, and motor vehicle testing programs.

House-Breaker Awaits Screening at Oakalla

A sailor awaiting sentence after conviction on a charge of house-breaking, was remanded to Oakalla Prison today where he will be screened for entry to the Borstal establishment.

Melvin S. Reese, convicted previously on a similar charge, received the sentence from Magistrate H. C. Hall in spite of a plea by the defense counsel.

"He is in need of psychiatric treatment which he can receive from the navy . . . his trouble stems from drinking. He faces discharge from the service unless he is allowed a suspended sentence," the defense said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—After whom was Yonge Street, widely known Toronto thoroughfare, named? G.T.

A.—Sir George Yonge, then British secretary of state for war.

Q.—1. Can you tell me if a small Canadian 5-cent piece dated 1903 has any premium value? 2. A U.S. half-dime of 1853? Mrs. B.S.

A.—1. The Canadian 5-cent coin of 1921, known to be rare, is described as of sufficient premium value to be of interest to collectors, but 5-cent pieces of other years are generally of little worth beyond their face value. 2. Would probably depend on condition of coin, also on where it was minted as such coins in that period were minted at several places in U.S. If shown the coin, a dealer could give information.

Q.—What is the rate of increase of population in the United States? V.L.

A.—It is estimated at one every 12 seconds, the computation taking into account the births, deaths and migration into and out of the country.

Deck Your Pierced Lobes With 10 Kt. Gold Posts!

By PENNY SAVER

Wonder how many girls there are in Victoria with pierced ears? Hundreds, even thousands, maybe!

There is just one drawback to having one's ears pierced, and that is the price you have to pay for a nice pair of earrings. They are all terrifically expensive, unless of course you go in for the cheap drop earrings that are made of wire instead of gold and are therefore likely to infect the ears. Until today, I thought it was impossible to buy a pair of gold posts without setting back a working girl's budget... but I found that I was wrong. At any rate, 10 karat gold post earrings with dainty imitation rubies, sapphires, diamonds and amethysts, to mention just a few, are priced at $1.75. When worn, they look as if you'd paid at least $10.95 for them!

Anyone furnishing a miniature house, whether as a hobby, or as a gift for some little girl should get a look at the adorable copper furnishings now selling from 35 cents to about $2.25. There are toasters, fire screens, chairs, shovels, sun dials, teapots, saucepans, candlesticks, cups and saucers and even little flour sifter with a handle that turns around. Of course I'm only mentioning a few of the pieces available. They'd look cute on your knick-knack shelf, too!

It's made of nylon mesh, and when not in use, it folds up to take just a tiny corner of your purse. Light as a feather, yet strong and long-lasting is the handy new shopping bag—that costs 89 cents.

Another nylon wonder is the mesh scouring ball that can't scratch and is so easy on the hands! You haven't lived until you've tried this favorite of all housewives who have tried it! In white, it washes clean with a swirl of water from the tap... 19 cents.

Television salt and pepper shakers... Hmmm, what next? They're different, anyway, and would make a novel gift. Two miniature TV sets made of light wood is what they are. The salt shaker shows a scene of a skater and the pepper shaker shows a cowboy and his horse. Price... $1.75.

Gladioli, Chrysanthemums Deck Church for Wedding

Our Lady of Lourdes Church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums for the wedding ceremony last evening which united Barbara Alayne, daughter of Mrs. Jones, 2296 Dunlevy Street, and the late Dr. H. Aubrey Jones, with Domenick S. Cantanzarite, son of Mrs. Mike Guardino, Stockton, Calif., and the late Mr. Frank Cantanzarite. Father—La Sagne—officiated. Mrs. Thomas H. Tighe was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, E. Ronald Whittington, was a picture in her gown of white Chantilly lace over satin, trimmed with iridescent sequins and pearls.

Bride Chose Misty Blue For Gown

Misty blue taffeta was the choice of Mildred Irene Masters for her wedding Saturday evening. The gown swirled to a graceful ballerina length and her chapel veil, en tone, clouded from a headress of net Tulleman roses and white carnations formed her bouquet.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Masters, Beaver Road, Royal Oak, entered St. Luke's Church on the arm of her father, to become the bride of Norman Leaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Willard, Wardsworth Common, London, England.

Canon F. Pike performed the ceremony. Pink gladioli and pink and white chrysanthemums formed a pretty background. Mrs. H. Gibson, matron of honor, was gowning in an afternoon-length smoke-blue taffeta dress with pink feathered hat and colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Charlie Lipinski was best man for his brother-in-law, and ushering guests to pews were the bride's brother and brother-in-law, Ray Masters and H. Gibson.

Reception was held at the Strathcona Hotel, where the bride's mother, wearing a becoming dress of blue crepe with lace bodice, received guests. Gardenias and roses formed her corsage. Made and decorated by the bride's parents, the two-tier wedding cake centred the bridal table. William Darling proposed the toast.

For traveling on honeymoon in the United States, Mrs. Leaver wore a suit of soft grey-blue worsted wool with off-the-face navy hat and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Leaver will live in Victoria.

A Fast Worker Must Not Be Held Back

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There is an old saying, "A quick learner is a quick forgetter." Many people believe this to the point where they encourage their children to learn slowly even when they are naturally fast. A father says:

(Q) "My son is now in the eighth grade and is a very good student. He gets good marks and his teachers tell me he is one of the best students in the class. But I am disturbed because he spends very little time on his studies. He tells me he finishes his assignments in school before the rest of the class and then just sits and waits for the others to finish. At home he is through his homework in a very short time and then wants to go out to play or watch television. I maintain that he should spend more time on his studies but he tells me he doesn't have to. Won't this encourage slipshod study habits? I want him to go to college but I am afraid he will have such bad study habits that he will never be able to do college work. How can I make him a more serious student?"

(A) A "serious student" is not necessarily one who pores over his books for hours at a time. On the contrary his seriousness is shown by his interest in his studies and his desire to do all the work his teachers assign and more too.

Your son has shown, by his good grades and by the favorable impression he has created, that he is a very good student. There is no reason for you to be worried about the boy's college abilities, if he continues as he is.

What you should worry about, however, is the chance that he will become bored. You are contributing to this possibility by insisting that he spend more time on school books than is necessary.

Unquestionably your son is bright and concentrates well. That is why he is able to do good work with minimum time and effort. Don't discourage this by trying to force him to spend more time at it. Let him work at his own speed and then suggest reading good books in his spare time.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For Longer Productive Life Keep Your Weight Down

The man who wishes to be successful in his career and to live long enough to enjoy the benefits of his success when he has achieved it, must take his overweight seriously. He can no longer overlook it if he seriously wishes to avoid the chronic diseases of middle age and live comfortably to a ripe old age, because overweight has been proven to be one of the great predisposing factors in today's top killing diseases and in early deterioration.

Men owe it to themselves and to those who love them to lose their excess poundage and then to hold to the correct weight for the rest of their lives.

This is not nearly so dreary as it may sound. It can be done without a starvation diet and the increase in the feeling of well being and energy will be well worth the effort. Once you achieve your correct weight you can indulge moderately in some of the richer foods at times but this should not be your habit in eating, not if you really want health in later years.

Loss of weight may appear to be something to procrastinate about now when you are feeling fine, but looking back it will seem foolish and shortsighted when you realize that your overweight probably gave yourself a big boost toward the chronic disease which may have suddenly jumped on you without warning.

Life insurance companies know so well how true this is that obesity is one of the main reasons for turning down policy seekers. According to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company those who are 20 per cent overweight have a mortality rate one-third higher than average. In those 30 per cent overweight the mortality rate is about one-half higher and in those 50 per cent overweight the mortality rate is double.

This means something!

So get on my Tubby Hubby diet to help you lose those dangerous pounds. Here is what you eat tomorrow:

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast—One glass of tomato juice; two eggs boiled or poached; two strips of crisp bacon; one piece of toast with a little butter and jelly, black coffee.

Lunch—Medium helping of lamb or beef roast (no fat or gravy); green salad with vinegar or lemon juice for dressing; one medium baked potato, with just a bit of butter; one glass of buttermilk.

Dinner—Lean steak; medium helping of cauliflower, one helping of green vegetable; one roll, little butter; medium helping of cheese; skimmed milk or buttermilk; fresh fruit.

If you would like to have my Tubby Hubby Reducing Diet booklet which gives you a loss of from seven to twelve pounds in twelve days time send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Note to wives: If your husband has not seen this you might like to call it to his attention or just begin planning his meals according to it.

Saturday's Bride, Beth Wyber Wears Grandmother's Pearls

"Something old" for Elizabeth

Margaret Wyber when she exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony Saturday evening, with Robert William Labombard, was a strand of pearls belonging to her grandmother. Canon R. Willis read the service in St. Mark's Church for the daughter of Mrs. David Wyber, 430 Beta Street, and the late Mr. Wyber, and the son of Mrs. Dorothy Thibeault, Chatham, Ont., and Edward Labombard, Windsor, Ont. During the signing of the register Mrs. John Viggers sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her godfather, Harold Bardsley, the bride was charming in her gown of nylon net with lace inserts. Her lace jacket with lily point sleeves featured a beaded Peter Pan collar and a headpiece of ruffled lace and net trimmed with orange blossoms held her finger veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses. After leaving the church she slipped a white fur jacket, gift of the groom, over her shoulders.

Maid of honor, Miss Peggy Mead, wore mauve nylon net scattered with daisies and topped with matching lace jacket. Her veil of mauve net was held by a bandeau of yellow flowers and she carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums in colonial style. Cousin of the bride, Miss Joyce McIntyre, was bridesmaid. Her gown of yellow nylon net was topped with jacket of brocade silk and she wore a veil of yellow net held by mauve flowers. Mauve chrysanthemums formed her colonial bouquet.

Gerry Morgan was best man. Ushers were William Wyber, brother of the bride, and Samuel Hewson.

Reception was held at 802 Esquimalt Road, where mauve, yellow and white streamers decked the room. A three-tier wedding cake centred the table, which was covered with a crocheted lace cloth. Charlie McGaw proposed the toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Labombard are on honeymoon in the United States. For traveling, the bride's choice was a suit of dusty blue with yellow shortie coat, white accessories, and black hat. She wore a red rose corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Labombard will live at 989 Wollaston Street.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Claire: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.

—Mrs. A. W.
A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a brand new fragrance medium by Houbigant called Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily and lingers longer because of its saccharine base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Liquid Skin Sachet. Available in 3 famous fragrances: Chantilly, Quelques Fleurs, Le Parfum Ideal. Only $2.

Young Models Will Display Fall Fashions for Juniors and Tween-Ages at PTA Autumn Fair

The Victoria Arts Centre will be the scene of an "event with a difference." Wednesday, when it hosts the Central Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association Autumn Fair and Tea. Handicapped by lack of space, due to construction of new school building, Parent-Teacher Association is looking forward to presenting its annual fall affair in the setting at 1040 Moss Street, only a block from the school. Highlights of the afternoon, which is under the patronage of His Worship Mayor Claude Harrison and Mrs. Harrison, will be a preview of fall fashions by girls of the school, a concert in the Arts Centre grounds by the Central School Band, under Bandmaster Rowland Grant, and a profusion of stalls offering home cooking, needlework, flowers and house plants for sale. Convened by Mrs. Emerson Smith, the fair will be opened by Mrs. G. W. Pottinger of the Victoria Parent-Teacher Council, at 2.30. Seen above, modeling junior miss styles are, left to right, Sylvia Thompson, who wears a rust coat with flare back and dolman sleeves, rolled cuffs, pyramid collar and slash pockets. Her hat is a gold corduroy cloche with white fur pompon. Sigrid Small shows an English Brummell Ivanhoe coat, of all-wool tweed in princess lines with half-belt. With it she wears a green velvet jockey cap. A houndstooth check reversible raincoat is worn by Maureen Mackintosh. Her jockey cap is red cord and her gloves, red leather. A gabardine raincoat with green taffeta check, roll-back cuffs, matching umbrella and jockey cap is worn by Sheila Clark and Jill Pinniger's choice is an imported grey flannel "Beau Brummell" suit, featuring box jacket, all round pleated skirt, and a red corduroy cloche and red gloves. In the picture at right, Dianne Powell is wearing a nylon ribbon dress of royal blue sheer with red taffeta underskirt and red velvet sash. Valerie Parkin's dress is red taffeta with lace inserts. It features unpressed pleats, a cape collar and button trim. Margaret Jean McNeill displays a mauve nylon dress in dainty stripes, matching taffeta slip. The dress is worn with black velvet sash and has lace trim on the Peter Pan collar, puff sleeves and bodice. Stork and Tween-Age Shop are sponsors of the fashion show.

SUPPER MEETING

City Business Women Told of Sea Mysteries

The sea around Vancouver

Island, with its changing tides and winds, is the home of many hundreds of creatures, said Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum when he addressed members of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club at their supper meeting in the club rooms Monday evening.

Among the many varieties of seaweeds which are found on the rocks along this coast, myriad forms of shell fish, crab and sea urchins dwell, continued Dr. Carl, while in the deeper waters approximately 400 odd species of fish are found providing an industry which is one of the foremost in B.C.

The sea which covers two-thirds of the world's surface, provides a valuable source of livelihood for man and opens up many fields of study. Dr. Carl illustrated his lecture with beautiful colored slides taken on the beaches near Victoria.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Verna Beek and thanked by Mrs. Barbara Woodward.

Seated at the head table with the president Mrs. Bessie Smith were Miss Mabel Cameron who introduced Miss Joan Sloan, 17th winner of the Bay Wigley scholarship given by the club for commercial study. Formal presentation of the award will be made on Wednesday afternoon at the Victoria High School. Miss Sloan was accompanied by Mrs. E. A. Sandahl. Other special guests included

Miss Irene Byatt and Mrs. C. Carl.

The president welcomed three new members, Mrs. M. Collison, Miss H. Egan and Miss M. Cottingham.

Final plans for the Provincial Conference to be held in Victoria at the Empress Hotel on Thanksgiving week-end were announced by Miss Jane Hall, regional representative for the Island.

Reports Given

At a recent meeting of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 25, reports were given by Mrs. F. Benzie, sick matron; Mrs. J. Priddle, membership; Mrs. Van Alphan, Moosehaven; Mrs. M. Benthall, Mooseheart and Mrs. R. C. Eastwood, publicity. Senior Regent, Dulcinea Guelph, presided. Mooseheart and Moosehaven reporters told of a Christmas party to be held to raise funds for Christmas presents for the two homes. Annual Mooseheart service will be held in Metropolitan United Church next month.

Americans to Come Under Jurisdiction Of Japanese Law

TOKYO (UP) — Ambassador John Allison signed today an agreement that gives Japan the right to try and jail convicted American violators of Japanese law.

The agreement, which goes into effect one month from today, subjects U.S. troops, their families and foreign civilian employees of American defense forces in Japan to Japanese jurisdiction.

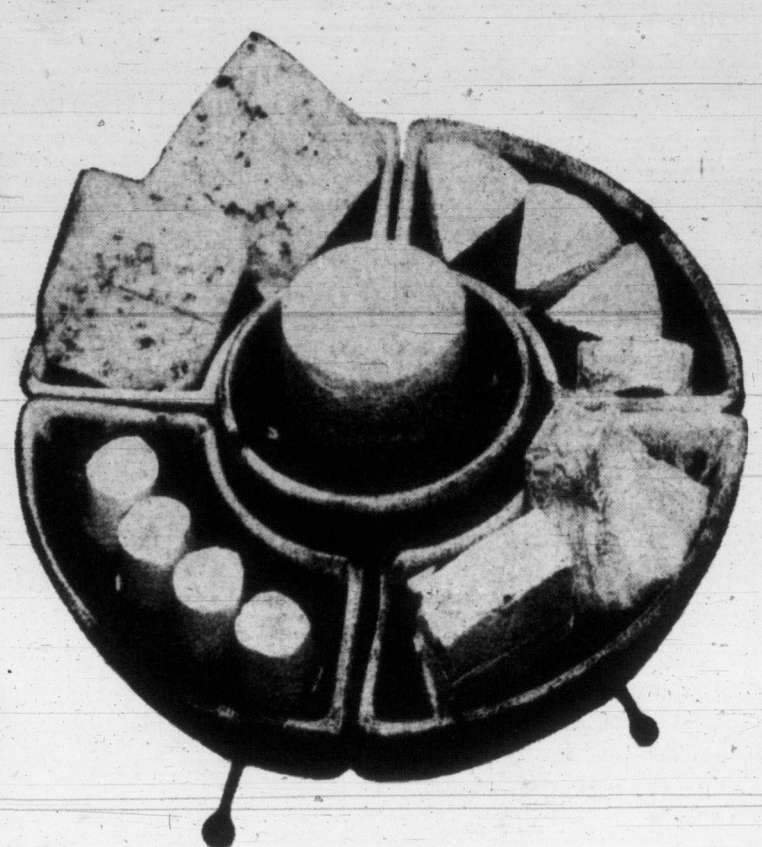

It amends the most controversial section of the U.S.-Japan military base pact, which granted American troops immunity from trial and punishment by Japan.

U.S. and Japanese leaders predicted the new agreement would eliminate one of the major causes of anti-Americanism which recently has been fanned to serious proportions by extremists.

Foreign Minister Katsumi Okazaki called the agreement an "ideal formula... the most reasonable and advanced in the world."

Most Headaches Caused By Increased Blood Flow

A splitting headache often arrives at the most inconvenient times. Although a "headache" serves as one of the best excuses for getting out of some engagements, the real thing is exceedingly unpleasant.

Headache is a strange thing. There are reasons for believing in most, if not all, there is increased blood flowing through the blood vessels of the brain during a headache and this increases the pressure on the hard, bony skull. Certainly, most of them feel that way!

Why this happens in some people and at some times is hard to figure out. There seems to be several reasons which can bring this about.

Undoubtedly worry or some other kind of nervous strain brings on headache in many people. While a headache can sometimes be traced to eye-strain, sinus trouble, or an upset stomach, the nervous origin of many headaches is the most important.

One man had a quarrel with his partner about twice a year and a day later he would invariably be prostrated by a severe headache. A mother always developed a bad attack whenever her daughter stayed out in the evening longer than the mother thought wise!

This sort of thing goes on all the time and furnishes good evidence of the close relation between worry, anger or other emotions and many headaches. However, many headaches are considered to be of the migraine type which are partly hereditary and partly the result of the stress and strain of modern life. Even many of those which are not classified as migraine come on after a difficult conference, a quarrel or something else which interferes with the calm life.

EVERYONE HAS HEADACHES

The occasional headache is something that almost everyone experiences, but the frequently repeated attack cannot be ignored. If it can be traced to some definite physical cause the underlying difficulty can often be corrected.

Some physicians who have studied this subject intensively believe many headache victims have a driving personality, are particularly ambitious and keep pushing themselves long after they should let down on their activities. These people find it hard to let others do some of the work and keep themselves always tense and anxious.

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister Sinclair left Ottawa Monday for London in an effort to persuade the United Kingdom ministry of food to buy part of British Columbia's 1933 salmon pack.

COURT QUESTIONS ACTIONS OF LAWYERS IN DIVORCE CASE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two B.C. lawyers face possible disciplinary action before the British Columbia Law Society for attempting to collect court costs in advance in a divorce action.

Mr. Justice H. W. Davey said after hearing the action he would send the case of Harold L. Matthews of Powell River, B.C., and Gerald Arnott Lauder of Victoria to the law society's disciplinary committee for action.

Mr. Justice Davey granted Harold L. Macro, Powell River millworker, a degree dissolving his marriage here in 1932 to Elsie M. Macro, but deprived him of costs traditionally set by the court.

He made the ruling after hearing that Mr. Matthews attempted to collect $400 in advance from Mrs. Macro and the co-respondent, R. W. Reeve of Victoria. Court was told that Mr. Lauder got in touch with Mrs. Macro and Mr. Reeve as agent for the Powell River solicitor. Mr. Justice Davey said he was "very much surprised" at the action of the two lawyers. "I am not saying their conduct constituted collusion, but I am going to send the file of this case to the discipline committee of the law society. Mr. Reeve testified that Mr. Lauder told him it would cost considerably more than $400 if he failed to pay until after the divorce was granted."

Gas Station License Limit Plea Refused

A petition requesting that no further licenses be granted for the installation of gasoline stations in Esquimalt was rejected by Esquimalt Council Monday.

The petition was signed by the majority of gasoline station operators in the municipality. They said there are sufficient gasoline stations in Esquimalt at the present time.

"We have no authority under the Municipal Act to restrict trade," commented Cllr. W. Dalway.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele agreed "We can't say, there will be only five grocers, three cobblers and the like in the municipality," he explained. "We can't prevent the installation of a gasoline station in the municipality if it conforms to the building and zoning by-laws."

Totem 'Memory' Play Able Interpretation

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON
"THE GLASS MENAGERIE"
By Tennessee Williams
Tom Wingfield... The Arrogant...
Laura Wingfield... Norma Macmillan...
Jim O'Connor... Len O'Connor...

It is now some six weeks since Vancouver's Totem Theatre first lighted up the marquee of the former York Theatre on Government Street.

To date, they have given us a light summer diet of comedies and suspense plays, pandering to the mood of the season. But this week sees a change to a more thoughtful, more subtle and difficult piece—a play that deals with the fragility and vulnerability of human hopes and dreams.

Williams' psychological preoccupation once more sets upon the stage a story of frustration, but his star-crossed heroines of this early opus have a lingering tenderness, a poignancy that is not overstated yet is piercing; and through it all stab occasional shafts of wry humor.

This was a production that successfully established the dream mood of what is described as a "memory play." Even though, on this first night after a week's rehearsal period, there were occasional technical lapses that broke the even flow of the production, still it was highly effective and interpretively successful.

SENSITIVE DIRECTION.
Sam Payne's direction is imaginative and sensitive and develops the theme with a sure, deft touch as an artist creates a series of pastel impressions. The company is fortunate in having once more the services of Verile Cootey, whose "Amanda" is so moving and so remarkably sincere a characterization. There is fine clarity and a quite virtuosic variety of tone and pace in her performance.

ance. I have seen several "Amandas" but not one who impressed me nor moved me more deeply. It is a restrained, poised and spirited interpretation.

Norma Macmillan speaks little but one can never be unaware of her presence and her tragedy for it is in her eyes and in the very lines of her still figure. And that, too, is the consummate art of acting.

Thor Arngren has a major responsibility in his capacity as narrator, recalling and placing before the audience the scenes of his memory and then assuming his role in those scenes. He managed the transition from one style to the other smoothly and with sharp definition, conveying strongly the impression of a restless, caged spirit on one hand and the nostalgia of retrospect on the other.

Coming late on the scene as the "gentleman caller," Len Otkent was quite clearly the uninhibited, normal human being who suffers from the opposite of an inferiority complex. The illusion tripped up a little over a scrim curtain that did not quite close and a mis-cued light, but otherwise the whole production, atmospheric and convincing. I thought the candelabra and candles too tall. In the scene where they are placed on the floor, they do not help, but hinder the playing of Laura and Jim.

Benny's Sister-in-Law Arrested in Hollywood
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Jack Benny's sister-in-law, Mrs. Babe Blum, 56, a frequent foil for the comedian's quips on his radio program, was arrested early Monday with two men on charges of suspicion of burglary, disturbing the peace and drunkenness.

Sheriff's deputies reported the three tried to force their way into the home of actor Bob Hannon because Mrs. Blum said she believed her former boy friend, Elbert Costley, lived there.

Mrs. Blum was released on $10,000 bail and ordered to appear in court October 1 for a hearing.

AA—Oscar Class. A—Don't Miss. BB—Worthwhile. B—For a Rainy Afternoon. C—To Put in Time.

(OSCAR CLASS) 'SHANE'
(Royal):—Every now and then, possibly on the average of once a year, there comes to the screen a western that might be classified as a classic.

Reaching back over the years, even into the silent movies, there comes to mind such illustrious titles as "The Covered Wagon," "North of 36," "Stagecoach," "The Gunfighter" and last year's brilliant "High Noon."

Now to this illustrious company may be added "Shane."

Over the years, westerns have garnered the reputation of being full of hard-driving, gun-toting men who brawl and shoot 24-hours a day. Really they have—the good ones—a story to tell, a story rich in history of a great new land being opened up by men and women whose heroics are only the everyday, hum-drum heroics of battling the elements, the mud, the rain, winter snows, drought, pestilence, famine and illness, of clearing the defiant land, throwing up their tiny cabins, sowing their grain, stocking their cattle and raising their families.

All these things, in bold, stark slashes of the Technicolor camera paint brush, "Shane" does with depth and feeling.

But what makes "Shane" the gripping story it is, is the fight of man against man in the ruthless struggle for ownership of the wild wilderness riches.

In the grandeur of Wyoming's Teton Range, farmer Van Heflin, his wife Jean Arthur and young son Brandon De Wilde staunchly hold out against the threats of the cattle barons to take over his homestead, by force if necessary. Into this situation rides Shane (Alan Ladd) out of a vague and violent past looking for peace and a chance to start out afresh.

Ponderously, gravely, the speed of the pioneers in a sullen wilderness, the story moves along, suspense adding to suspense. A subtle change comes over the small town. One senses the place Shane is taking in the affection of Heflin's wife and in the adoration of the son. Mostly one senses the inner conflict of the quiet Shane, his bid for the peaceful life struggling with the growing conviction that these enemies of the family who have befriended him must be wiped out. When the cattle barons hire gun-fighter Jack Palance who plays a killer with ruthless conviction, his mind is made up.

There is little doubt that Ladd will be in contention for Academy Award honors next spring for his performance as "Shane." Van Heflin and Miss Arthur are also of note. But if "Shane" owes its fineness to any one person—young Brandon De Wilde should win an award. His wondering, round eyes are the mirrors for so many important things that might easily have been left out to the detriment of "Shane." The picture is also a directorial triumph for Paramount's George Stevens.

Again—don't miss it, for "Shane" rightfully takes its place among the greatest westerns ever made.

Baseball Bats Appear as War Looms on N.Y. Waterfront

NEW YORK (UP)—Reinforced squads of policemen patrolled this city's sprawling waterfront today as the deadline approached for a longshoremen's strike and possible conflict between two rival labor organizations.

The situation was tense after the die-hard International Longshoremen's Association threatened to call out its 40,000 members in the port of New York and 20,000 other members in Atlantic Coast ports from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.

The I.L.A., expelled from the American Federation of Labor and facing a fight for life against a rival union the AFL set up, called a strike for 12:01 a.m. Thursday unless shippers meet its wage demands. It gave the shippers until noon tomorrow to comply.

More than 1,000 policemen, meanwhile, patrolled New York piers where I.L.A. longshoremen were pitched against organizers for a new AFL union in a waterfront membership war. Brooklyn Judge Sam Lebowitz warned yesterday that "violence and even murder" could be expected in the loyalty struggle between the I.L.A., which was ousted from the AFL for gangsterism and corruption, and the new union chartered by the AFL last week to replace it.

The judge issued his warning after police confiscated 20 baseball bats and 40 bludgeons found in a sound truck being used by AFL seamen in an appeal to cargo handlers to desert the I.L.A. The organization drive of the union is being sparked by members of the AFL Seamen's International Union.

About 1,200 Brooklyn longshoremen attended a mass meeting Monday night to hear union leaders loyal to I.L.A. chief Joseph P. Ryan urge them to stick with the orphaned union.

First in Line

NEW YORK (UP)—Charles M. Kierst of Auburn, N.Y., snoozed on a blanket in front of Yankee Stadium today, confident he would get a seat for the opening game of the World Series.

Kierst Monday took the first place in line before the bleacher box office for the series opener tomorrow between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Special coverage of the World Series for the Times by Red Smith, famous New York sportswriter, will start tomorrow, instead of today as originally planned.

Russia Urges Big Five Talks on World Tension

SIX-YEAR-OLD KIDNAPPED IN KANSAS CITY

Pseudo Aunt Takes Boy From School

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Police stood grimly in the shadows today awaiting the first move by the woman kidnapper of a brown-eyed six-year-old boy to contact the victim's millionaire father.

The kidnapper is a stockily-built, red-haired woman. She whisked Bobby Greenlease Jr. from an exclusive Catholic school Monday, leaving his father, Robert C. Greenlease, 65, fighting back tears in his helplessness and his mother, 45, in bed under a doctor's care.

Greenlease, who has made millions as an automobile dealer in the Midwest, had received no contact from the kidnapper by early today.

Police declined to discuss "ransom" possibilities. They remained in the background entirely, although one closed door conference followed another at headquarters.

The tall, distinguished-looking father appeared briefly on the stoop at the front of the house. He fought back tears as he talked to clusters of friends.

Greenlease took Bobby to school as usual Monday, to the French Institute of Notre Dame De Sion, only French-speaking boarding and day school in the U.S.

Bobby's kidnapper moved easily and surely. She arrived at the school in a taxi and told her story to the nuns. She said she was Bobby's aunt and that the boy's mother had suffered a heart attack.

She even stopped to pray for Mrs. Greenlease in the chapel, at a nun's suggestion. She said: "I'm not a Catholic, but it did me good to pray."

Then she left with Bobby in the taxi. They went a few blocks to the parking lot of a large drug store where they stopped for an ice cream cone, according to taxi driver Walter Creech.

They left the drug store and walked to a light blue, late model Ford, Creech said. The car had a Kansas license.

Nothing has been heard of them since.

Liquor Act Bill Still Faces Hitches

A last-minute stumbling block in presentation of the government's new liquor act is believed to be the so-called proprietary clubs issue.

The act was scheduled to be presented to the Legislature this afternoon, but at press time it was understood it would not be made known until Wednesday at the earliest.

The Stevens' Commission recommended abolition of "proprietary clubs" and there was speculation the government had decided to follow the recommendation.

Then a delegation from mainland clubs arrived at the Parliament Buildings this morning, and word of the delay in presentation was given.

Proprietary clubs were defined by the Stevens' Commission as those operated for private profit. In Victoria, they are the British Public Schools Club and the Tillamook Club. Vancouver has several such clubs, including the Pacific Athletic Club, the Quadra Club and the Arctic Club.

On proprietary clubs, the Stevens' Commission said: "The so-called proprietary clubs, which have been launched in recent years merely to take advantage of the profit feature of the liquor licenses, do not perform any useful function which in our opinion would not and could not be better performed by the non-profit, non-proprietary type of club under the management of the members through properly elected officers, the conduct and management of which is the responsibility of all members."

"Therefore, in our opinion, all licenses presently in effect to such proprietary clubs should be cancelled and club licenses issued only to non-profit clubs incorporated under the Societies Act. Such clubs would be required to have as members only bona-fide members in possession of an annual membership fee to be not less than $10."

Even if any of these international meetin's do take place, bet y' won't hear any "pleased t' meetcha."

Egypt Claims Israeli Force On Border

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Minister of national guidance Salem Salem said today Israeli armed forces had occupied parts of the demilitarized area around Auga on the Egyptian-Israeli frontier.

The Egyptian government has summoned the army commander-in-chief to Cairo for consultation and has notified the joint Palestine armistice commission and the Egyptian delegation to the United Nations of "this aggression," Salem said. "We are not disclosing our plans," Salem said at a press conference. "But we know what to do."

Lt. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, the Egyptian commander-in-chief, is returning at once from an inspection tour to take charge of the military aspect of the situation, Salem said. He declined to give details of the reported Israeli move, or its date.

POLIO WORSE; INTER-SCHOOL SPORT BANNED

City MHO Advises New Precautions

Because of the high prevalent incidence of polio in the Greater Victoria area all inter-school athletics have been canceled.

Notice went out from George Grant, superintendent of physical education for the school board, to all school principals in this area today.

One new polio case was reported in Greater Victoria Monday. A 30-year-old Saanich woman was admitted to the isolation centre at Jubilee Hospital, bringing the total number of cases in this area since the beginning of the year to 75.

The school board decision was taken on the advice of Dr. J. L. Gayton, Victoria-Esquamalt medical health officer.

Notices to the principals said: "All physical activities of an inter-school nature should be cancelled for at least a month and maybe longer."

"Regular physical education periods should be continued as usual and all students should be encouraged to keep in top physical condition. Interhouse activities are left to the discretion of principals."

GALA POSTPONED

The school board instructions mean the postponement of the big inter-school swimming meet, which was to have been held October 23, October 30 and November 6, under the auspices of the Victoria Swimming Club. "We are avoiding all excessive physical activities as much as possible," a school board spokesman said.

"This is just a precaution," Dr. Gayton explained. "School authorities are reporting all cases of absenteeism and wherever it seems necessary medical attention will be given."

Parents are urged to take every precaution when youngsters develop symptoms which indicate subnormal health. They should keep youngsters from school and, in doubt, get medical advice, authorities urge. Meanwhile, the Vic Van Isle Kinsmen Club's campaign to aid the B.C. Polio Fund was helped considerably when a $333.50 donation was turned over from three groups of employees at Royal Jubilee Hospital. The contribution of the hospital workers brought the fund total here to $2,350.52.

Former Egypt Premier On Trial for Treason

CAIRO (AP)—A former Egyptian defense minister testified today ex-King Farouk was primarily responsible for sending "unarmed Egyptian forces" into battle against the Jews during the 1947-48 Palestine war. He said this was done against the advice of the army general staff.

The minister, Mohammed Haidar, was testifying in the trial of former premier Ibrahim Haidi, who is charged with high treason. Haidar was minister of defense in Haidi's cabinet.

Red China Acceptance Is Soviet Parley Price

(Compiled From UP and AP Dispatches)

A world sharply divided by distrust appeared bent today upon meetings which could conceivably restore harmony.

Events leading up to such a surmise were:

1. IN PARIS the Soviet Union offered to negotiate a German settlement with the western Allies (Britain, U.S., France), in a Big-Four conference if they would join Russia and Communist China in a Big-Five round table discussion of all other problems.

2. AT UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Monday, Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon also appealed for a Big-Four meeting. In an address before the UN General Assembly he said: "Humanity cries for it. It might be a solution to our present difficulties. It would clear the air, including the situation in Germany and Korea... nothing would be more desirable."

3. IN LONDON, Monday, British Prime Minister Churchill said in a special statement that he has not changed his opinion that a Big-Four meeting would be profitable and should be scheduled.

4. BONN, Germany, Saturday, the Council of Europe voted by a 76-7 majority to urge a Big Four meeting and an East-West mutual security pact.

5. In Washington, meanwhile, the U.S. was reported by the United Press to be standing fast against mounting world pressure for a Big Four chiefs of state meeting until the Soviet Union demonstrates in lower-level conferences that it means to work for peace. Officials insisted it would be useless to hold such a meeting now because, they said, there is no evidence the Soviet world intends to mend its ways and drop its goal of world domination.

Wants UN Seat for China Reds

PARIS (UP)—The Soviet Union proposed today a five-power meeting including Red China on all problems affecting "world tension" and a four-power parley with the United States, Britain and France on the future of Germany.

Russia demanded also that Communist China be given a seat in the United Nations and be permitted to take part in the settlement of all issues concerning the Pacific and Southeast Asia.

The Russian proposals were contained in a note handed to the three western ambassadors in Moscow Monday. The notes arrived in Washington, Paris and London today.

The long and vague—possibly deliberately—Soviet note gave no indication how or when Russia would like to hold the two conferences.

The initial reaction of officials here was that since the Russians put the five-power parley first, they meant to make it—at least for bargaining purposes—a condition for the holding of a four-power conference on Germany.

Furthermore, since the note made no mention of the Lugano conference proposal, the conclusion of Allied experts was that the Russians by ignoring the invitation had rejected it.

Kremlin Ignores PM's Call

It was also noted that the Kremlin also ignored the call by British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a full-dress Big Four conference of chiefs of state including President Eisenhower, French Premier Joseph Laniel and Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov. Yet Moscow itself had long called for such a high level meeting.

The note was in answer to the western proposals of Sept. 2 inviting the Soviet Union to send its foreign minister to Lugano, Switzerland, Oct. 15 to discuss the issues of German unification and the conclusion of an Austrian treaty.

The Kremlin in its latest exchange with the West completely ignored this invitation. Instead it concluded its strangely vague 10-page note—the first nine filled with the usual propaganda—with a demand for:

1.—A meeting of the five foreign ministers including Communist China's on all problems affecting "world tension" and,

2.—A meeting of the four foreign ministers, without the Peiping representative, on the German problem.

As for Austria, the note said that issue could be handled through "regular diplomatic channels."

TRUMAN CITATION CAUSES FUSS

Sunburst of Medals For Canadians?

OTTAWA (BUP)—Defense officials, wary of Canadian soldiers breaking out in a rash of ribbons, were still trying to decide today whether the Princess Pats can wear a decoration they won in Korea in 1951.

The 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, first Canadian army unit to serve in Korea, was cited by former President Harry Truman for its fight against the Communists.

Units of the United States army so honored may wear a blue ribbon framed in bronze. But the Pats have not yet received permission to wear the decoration.

Defense Minister Brooke Claxton and other top defense officials were still "considering" the matter, a spokesman said.

Although individual members of the unit cannot display the ribbon that goes with the citation, the spokesman said, it is recognized in a streamer attached to the regimental colors.

The defense official made clear that one of the chief reasons for the delay was the worry that if the Pats were given permission to wear the ribbon, it would set a precedent that might lead in the future to a sunburst of decorations.

Kidnapping Feared In Disappearance Of Pr. George Boy

PRINCE GEORGE (BUP)—The RCMP said today they feared Arnold Aspinall, 4, missing from his home here since Friday, may have been kidnapped.

The lad was last seen walking up the street to meet his father returning from work. By Sunday, when an exhaustive search of surrounding areas failed to produce any trace of the boy's whereabouts, police and neighbors began to fear foul play.

Police said they were working on a tip from a person who reported seeing Ronald late Friday night at the CNR station in company with an unidentified man. A $100 reward was offered for information leading to Ronald's recovery.

MRS. TILLY ROLSTON

Tilly Rolston's Condition 'Very Serious'

Underwent Surgery
Last Saturday

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston is "in very serious condition" in Vancouver General Hospital.

The premier called news papermen to his office early this afternoon to make the announcement.

Mrs. Rolston, who went into hospital 10 days ago, underwent an operation Saturday.

Members of her family were called to her bedside today. Hospital authorities declined to discuss the nature of Mrs. Rolston's illness, which has forced her to go into hospital for treatment several times in recent months.

Mrs. Rolston is 66.

Mrs. Rolston's health has not been good for the last two years.

It is her third time in hospital and her second operation since 1951.

Despite this, Mrs. Rolston took part actively in the two general election campaigns.

Mrs. Rolston was appointed education minister last August after the first Social Credit victory. She retained the portfolio after this year's election although she was personally defeated in Vancouver-Point Grey riding.

Because of her defeat she could not sit in the legislature and Attorney-General Robert Bonner has handled education department business in the House.

He Whistled for Help

Eighty-year-old Thomas James Dunstan blew toy plastic whistle when his house caught fire at 3 a.m. this morning and raised neighbors who called fire department. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

'I BLEW IT HELL FOR LEATHER'

Toy Whistle Saves Home, Belongings

By DAVE STOCK

A plastic toy whistle his granddaughter gave him in Brisbane, Australia, and which he's carried with him for two years, is credited with saving the home and possessions of 80-year-old Thomas James Dunstan early today.

Mr. Dunstan, a lean, sprightly man with a highly colorful past, awoke at 3 a.m. to find his Victoria West house on fire.

The first thing he did was leap out of bed and reach for the whistle in the pocket of his suit coat, hanging nearby.

"I blew it hell for leather," he recounted, "and when I wasn't blowing, I yelled loud as I could."

Mr. Dunstan was alone in the 10-room house at 202 Raynor Avenue which he purchased just over a month ago. He was sleeping in one of the upstairs bedrooms. The house has no telephone.

Although flames were leaping from a wall and the upstairs was filling with smoke when he awoke, Mr. Dunstan made no immediate attempt to flee. He kept blowing his whistle, however, and the shrill sound was heard by Mrs. Jean Edwards, upstairs tenant in a house across the road.

Mrs. Edwards, an operator for B.C. Telephone Company, saw the fire and immediately telephoned the fire department.

Pumpers arrived within minutes. In the meantime, Mr. Dunstan had grabbed the bed clothes off his bed and thrown them over the upstairs banister so as to make a cushion.
